Police, Others, Sued By Family of Cyclist Killed Here in May

The Borough and Township, and the police chiefs of both municipalities, have received notices that the family of a 22-year-old motorcyclist, killed May 1 in a police pursuit here, intends to sue them for negligence and damages.

Mark A. Kollar, 24, of Mt. Bethel, Pa., died of injuries he received when his speeding 1984 Honda 1100 motorcycle failed to negotiate a curve on Alexander Street just beyond the Rusty Scupper restaurant, and struck a tree. At the time, he was being pursued by Ptl. Donald Dawson and Ptl. Kenneth Lozier in a patrol car, after the officers had observed his cycle weaving erratically on Mercer Street.

The father of the victim, Elmer Kollar of Warren County, contends that the Borough police officers violated his son's civil rights by failing to

Bagel Crime Solved By Police Stakeout

The bagel burglar who has been feasting on goodies left by bakery deliverymen in the early morning hours in front of the Wawa Store on Nassau Street has been caught. Not one but two burglars on successive days.

Even with the two arrests, Chief Michael Carnevale commented this week that he feels it is "very probable" that such thefts will continue. He has suggested to the store managers that they provide an outside box with a lock on it.

The first arrest took place last Wednesday morning while the store was under the surveillance of Ptl. Mark Stillitano. About 1:45 a Bagel Junction delivery man had left two bags of bagels and

State Grants Seminary Tax Exemption On Two Single-Family Employee Homes

The state Tax Court has granted Princeton Theological Seminary's appeal for tax exemption on two Mercer Street single family residential dwellings. The houses, at 91 and 93, are assessed at more than $400,000 each, "but would bring much more on the open market," says Princeton Tax Assessor Carol Caskey.

Princeton Borough, which fought the appeal in court, was told to return to the Seminary $4,905 in 1985 taxes for 91 Mercer and $4,752 in last-year taxes for 93 Mercer.

Had the two houses remained on the tax rolls, the 1986 taxes would have been $5,297 on 91 and $4,752 on 93.

The off-campus houses are the home of a Seminary faculty member and of its director of public relations.

Judge Lawrence Lasser, who handed down the decision, is the same judge who ruled in April that the apartments for visiting scholars at the Institute for Advanced Study are exempt from paying taxes to Princeton Township.

The 150-unit housing complex, valued at $7.6 million, would have paid $185,000 in taxes this year.

The Borough has said it would back the Township in any appeal of the Institute decision because, according to Mayor Barbara Sigmund, "the ruling could potentially remove some $33 million in currently taxable property from the Borough."

Princeton University pays taxes on non-campus residential property valued at $30.3 million. The value of the Seminary's taxable residential property is assessed at $2.6 million, according to the mayor.

If these properties were removed from the Borough's tax rolls, the 1986 tax rate for Borough property owners would rise 20 cents, from $2.68 per $100 of assessed valuation to $2.88, she said.

Borough Attorney Walter Bliss said the recent tax court decisions affecting both the Borough and Township had been based on the Pingry case, where a cluster of faculty houses on the private school's campus were judged exempt from paying taxes to Hillside, N.J.

Appeals by institutions for similar tax exemption require a case by case analysis by the Management of Princeton's Open Space Is Suffering from Lack of Centralization

The Township's possible acquisition of all or part of the former Clark property off Mountain Avenue has focused attention on Princeton's existing parks and playgrounds, and the degree to which they are developed and maintained. (A survey of these parks begins on page 1B.)

To undertake such a survey is to appreciate the work of the far-sighted members of the Open Space Commission who assembled much of the acreage that is available today for active and passive recreation in the 1980's.

Preparing a survey of Princeton parks also highlights a key recommendation of the Township self-study known as the Governor's Management Improvement Program for Local Governments, or GMIP report, which was presented to Township Committee one year ago.

The problem, as defined in that study, is that "Park and open space land maintenance in the Borough and Township needs better coordination. It also needs to be more comprehensive. Three departments and three different commissions are involved with the park and open space maintenance, resulting in unnecessary overlap of equipment and personnel, and confusion over responsibility."

The recommendation of those Township citizens and municipal staff who undertook the study was for a study commission "to examine the centralization of parks and open space maintenance in a joint Borough-Township (and perhaps School) Parks and Recreation Department."

The benefit, the GMIP report suggested, would be in "better supervision and maintenance of all park and open space lands, and elimination of duplication of equipment and personnel. Better utilization by residents."

BALLOON BUST: Children in the Princeton Recreation Commission's summer program waited patiently Monday morning for this Forbes Magazine hot-air balloon to become airborne, so they could have tethered rides. The event was a bust, however, as stiff breezes made it too dangerous to continue. Both the balloon and the children's spirits were deflated.

Bagel Thieves

At 2:30 a New Colonial Bakery driver had deposited six bags of bread and rolls and 13 cardboard cartons of assorted pastries.

At 2:56, Ptl. Stillitano observed a person approach the store, walk directly to the bags of bagels, take the top bag and then walk east on Nassau. The suspect was stopped, arrested and taken to police headquarters where he was charged with theft.

When police asked the suspect, whom they identified as Albert Hewmann, 20, of Haverstown, Pa., currently living on Spruce Street, why he had taken the bag, he replied: "Because it didn't have anyone's name on it."

Not so, said the police. An inspection of the bag revealed it had the Wawa Store's name and a description of the bagels inside.

The very next morning (Thursday), a surveillance team set up by Ptl. Michael Taylor scored another "hit."

A few minutes after 4 a.m., three suspects approached the store and one grabbed six boxes of doughnuts that had been delivered by the Colonial Bakery. After alerting other patrol cars in the area, Ptl. Taylor confronted the suspects at the rear of the Wawa building. As he stopped the one carrying the doughnuts, the other two fled from the scene.

The thief was identified as a 16-year-old Princeton juvenile who was later released to the custody of his father. Chief Carnevale said that he will be charged as a juvenile by Juvenile Officer John Reading.

Chief Carnevale listed the wholesale value of the six dozen doughnuts at $15. He added that one of the two arrested

Correction

Part of a story concerning Borough Court actions was incorrectly reported by TOWN TOPICS last week.

Four Hawthorne Avenue residents, Phyllis Teitelbaum, Harriet Artzt, Anthony Lunn and William Glas were listed as paying $50 fines for violating the Borough's noise ordinance, when, in fact, they were the complainants in the case.

The defendant was Yetta Rushford, 37 Hawthorne Avenue, who was found guilty and paid four fines of $50 each.

TOWN TOPICS apologizes to the four complainants for the error.

court, said Mr. Bliss. "Each case has to be evaluated on facts."

Responding to the Seminary ruling, Mayor Sigmund said the Borough has three options, and that the third could go forward no matter which of the first two were tried.

The first option, says the mayor, is to appeal the ruling. The second would be to come to a settlement with the Seminary in which its payment in lieu of taxes would be significantly greater than the $5,000 it now contributes to the Borough for all operations.

The third approach outlined by the mayor would be to seek legislative remedy in order either to prevent this kind of further incursion into the tax base of municipalities by non-profit institutions, or to compensate municipalities bearing such a burden.

"By logical extension," said the mayor, "all Seminary and University residential properties could now be placed upon the back of the Borough taxpayer."

Borough Council is expected to decide whether to appeal the tax court ruling in a closed session at its July 22 meeting.

In 1985, tax-exempt properties in the Borough totalled $262.2 million, while taxable properties amounted to $410.1 million. The Borough is second only to Trenton in Mercer County in the amount of tax-exempt property within its borders. Princeton Township is third.

Brochure Is Available On Selecting Child Care

A free brochure entitled "Child Care: What Every Parent Needs to Know" has been prepared by the United Way - Princeton Area Communities. The booklet is intended to help parents find a safe and pleasant place for their children while the parents are at work.

The brochure describes the types of child care available, how to choose what is best for a child, and more than 60 questions for parents to answer before making a decision. It provides guidelines on what to look for in the program, the care providers and the facility itself. Telephone numbers are also provided for further information.

Acknowledging that choosing the proper child care program "can be a time-consuming experience," the brochure recommends that parents ask "informed and trusted people," such as family friends, other parents, public school administrators and pediatricians. It also suggests calling the Princeton Area Council of Community Services for further information and also visiting more than one child-care facility. The Council will have available a Child Care Directory by the end of May which will list all of the child care facilities in the greater Princeton area.

For a copy of the booklet, call the United Way at 924-5882 or the Council at 924-5865, or 799-6033.

YOUR EYES NEED TWO KINDS OF CARE...

YOURS and OURS

The next time you think about your eyes, remember your visual system is hooked directly to your brain and heart. Eye exams combined with in-depth patient histories can reveal the presence of cataracts, heart disease, nerve damage, diabetes, stroke, glaucoma, or something as simple as near-sightedness. But, if you don't set time aside for a routine annual eye exam, and be on the lookout for changes in your vision, even the best eye care professionals can't help you.

Princeton Eye Institute brings together a team of eye care specialists in one complete center. We've been serving Princeton area patients since 1956.

Our ophthalmologists, contact lens specialist, opticians and technicians work together for your total eye care — We can't do it without you.

How Do We Leave Thee? Let Us Count the Ways No Town Is An Island — Or Is It?

Time was — and not too long ago at that — when a motorist setting out from Princeton had a choice of appropriate and generally uncrowded roadways.

Princetonians were even known to have felt a bit superior to residents of other places, such as perhaps Long Island, who had to buck traffic jams even when going out for a quart of milk.

But now the massive Route 1 development plus a spate of road closings, bridge repairs, and roadway construction are beginning to dim the once rosy picture for area motorists.

It began last year with the closing of the Harrison Street bridge, which cut one of the three Princeton arteries to Route 1 — and the world beyond.

Then let's take Alexander.

Starting the second week in August and continuing for 90 days, West Windsor Township will begin the widening of Alexander Road, the second of Princeton's Route 1 arteries.

Borough and Township officials met last week for the first time with officials and engineers of West Windsor to discuss the situation. They left the meeting somewhat reassured, but still concerned.

Plans presented to the Princeton delegation showed a widening of Alexander Road to three lanes from Route 1 to a new road, Canal Pointe. Two lanes would go toward West Windsor and one into Princeton. Canal Pointe will be midway between 600 Alexander Road and Glenview Drive. Alexander Road would continue to be two lanes over the "S" curve up to the Princeton border, which is at the canal. This section will be repaved.

Township Administrator James Pascale said the Princeton officials were told that two lanes of traffic will be maintained during construction. The only exception would be several days toward the end of the project, when traffic over the "S" curve would have to be staggered one lane.

Mr. Pascale said that Princeton's concern is still great. "We will have problems even with one lane in each direction, particularly with truck movements during construction."

We could take 206.

Last week the State Department of Transportation announced bids will be awarded by the end of the month for resurfacing a 4.7 mile stretch of Route 206 from Green Avenue in Lawrenceville to near the Princeton border. The work is expected to be completed by December.

The road will not be closed, but there will be staggered one lane traffic. "If it's at all possible to carpool, it would be advisable," said DOT spokeswoman Debbie Lawler.

There's always Quaker Road, if it isn't flooded.

Work has begun on construction of the Quaker Bridge Road overpass that will eventually take the roadway over Route 1. Right now and in the near future, says Ms. Lawler, traffic on Quaker Bridge Road is not being impacted. "There may, however, be an impact at a later stage of construction," she says.

Let's just go to Hopewell.

The Carter Road bridge over Stony Brook, between Rosedale and Elm Ridge Roads, will be closed for four weeks beginning July 21. Traffic will be detoured to The Great Road, out The Great Road to Cherry Valley Road, along Cherry Valley, and back to Carter at Mt. Rose.

Then let's stay in town.

There are still four weeks to go in the repaving of Paul Robeson Place from Bayard Lane to Chambers Street — work that caused traffic jams on Day One that were described as "absolutely horrendous" by Police Chief Michael Carnevale.

And, beginning sometime next week, the entire stretch of Paul Robeson Place will be totally closed to traffic for at least two weeks.

More work on the roads in town is scheduled to begin in late September. Substantial sewer repairs are planned for the rectangular area bordered by Spring Street, Nassau Street, Witherspoon and Vandeventer. The crews will be on the job in different sections of this area for several months.

Anyone for taking a walk?

Possible Approval Seen For Sewer Repair Plan

The Sewer Operating Committee has received "encouraging signs," according to Chairman J.B. Smith, for approval of its $12 million sewer rehabilitation plan.

According to Mr. Smith, the New Jersey Department of Environmental Protection (DEP) supports the plan and has indicated its willingness to write the necessary permit to allow the planned five-year rainfall event overflows at two points that are part of the overall design. Mr. Smith says the DEP has also indicated it would use its best influence to convince the federal Environmental Protection Agency (EPA) of the soundness of the plan and to frame the permit in such a way that squares it with federal Clean Water Act regulations prohibiting such overflows.

"It's very encouraging," Mr. Smith reports. But he also adds that the delay in obtaining approval of the SOC plan has also pushed ahead the probable completion of the replacement of portions of the Harry's Brook and Mountain Brook trunkline by four months. He says it is "unlikely" that the SOC can meet the July 1, 1988 Clean Water Act deadline for trunk replacement.

The shorter Harry's Brook trunk is expected to be finished late in 1987 — instead of spring of 1987 as originally planned — but the Mountain Brook trunk will not be completed until after the July 1, 1988 deadline.

Meanwhile the SOC is proceeding on pinpointing and removing infiltration and inflow (I and I) from the system, and that process is "on

Dinky Station Parking Set for SPRAB Review

The Planning Board's Site Plan Review Advisory Board will review an application by Princeton University to re- design the area in front of the Dinky Station when it meets this Wednesday at 7:30 in Conference Room B of the Valley Road building.

The application involves the consolidation of several lots in Borough and Township into one 3.3 acre lot straddling the municipal boundary. It also involves the creation of a new parking area at the end of University Place running south- ward along the railroad track to a proposed new entrance and exit on Alexander Road. The parking lot would be for 198 spaces, of which 18 would be for WaWa employees and Univer- sity personnel, and 150 for com- muters.

In addition, the University plans to create improved pedestrian pathways im- mediately in front of the Dinky station.

Also on the agenda is a re- quest for a variance to permit a free-standing sign in front of the 830 State Road location of a transmission franchise dealer.

The Planning Board will meet in work session this Thursday at 7:30, in the Valley Road building meeting room. The first item on the agenda is discussion of an ordinance amendment changing the Ar- caro tract off Cherry Valley Road from OR-3 (office- residential) to RM (residential moderate density) zoning.

This change was before the Planning Board six weeks ago, but through his attorney, Mr. Arcaro asked for time in which to employ an engineer to make a study of the change on his behalf. The Planning Board does not make zoning changes itself, but can recommend or- dinance amendments to Town- ship Committee. Members are known to favor such a change, because part of the site is in the

Donges Pleads Innocent

Richard Donges, a former Riverside School teacher who has been indicted on charges that he sexually molested two of his third- grade female students, has pleaded innocent. A trial date has not been set.

Judge Judith A. Yaskin of Mercer County Superior Court set bail at $90,000. Donges had to post ten per- cent, $9,000, which he did.

The state had requested that the former Princeton teacher be required to stay in New Jersey. The judge refused this request and per- mitted him to return to his home in Delaware.

Judge Yaskin, however, ruled that Donges may have no contact with the victims or their families unless such communication is arranged with her.

Thomas Cannon, press secretary in the State At- torney General's office, said that it might be six months to a year before the trial gets underway.

environmentally sensitive, difficult to develop ridge area and because of the traffic problems that would be generated by the intense office use proposed by a Cherry Hill, N.J., developer who has an option on the site.

Township Zoning Board Plans an Extra Meeting

The Township Zoning Board has scheduled an extra meeting Wednesday, July 23, in order to take care of a backlog of variance requests. The board meets at 7:30 in the Valley Road Building meeting room.

The regular meeting this Wednesday at 7:30 will largely be taken up by the continued hearing of Michael Giardino's request for a use variance for a new clubhouse for the Italian- American Sportsmen's Club and bulk variances for the townhouses he plans on the re- mainder of the 25-acre site.

Composer/Theorist Milton Babbitt Receives $300,000 Grant from MacArthur Foundation

Princeton University Professor of Music Emeritus Milton Babbitt has been tapped by the MacArthur Foundation for one of its "no-strings" awards of $300,000.

Since 1981, the Chicago-based John D. and Catherine T. MacArthur Foundation has annually dispensed grants of from $164,000 to $300,000 to recipients among the nation's most promising scientists, scholars, writers and activists. Twenty-five awards were announced last week, including one to John R. Horner, a former staff member in the University Geology Department who is currently the curator of paleontology for the Museum of the Rockies at Montana State University in Bozeman.

Milton Babbitt

Prof. Babbitt was cited as "one of America's most original and influential composer theorists." The citation went on to say that he has "played a key role in fusing the major 20th-century musical traditions of Schoenberg and Stravinsky. Among his important theoretical contributions has been to extend Schoenberg's 12-tone concept beyond organized pitch relationship to the rhythmic relationships of music."

Prof. Babbitt, who officially retired two years ago after teaching since 1938 in the Princeton Music Department, was honored at a special concert of his music in Richardson Auditorium to celebrate his 70th birthday this winter. Born in Philadelphia, he received his AB in 1935 from New York University and his MFA in music from Princeton in 1942.

Mr. Horner, 40, was cited for having "contributed to a better understanding of pre-historic life." He began his career as a technician rather than an academician. After studies at the University of Montana, he became an assistant fossil preparator at Princeton University.

While conducting field research in 1978, he discovered the skeletal remains of a small dinosaur in an area in which researchers had unsuccessfully hunted for dinosaur nests decades before. Since that initial discovery, Mr. Horner has collected 20 of the 21 known dinosaur embryos in the world. "His great gift for finding and collecting significant fossils," the citation continues, "led to his discovery and documentation of two new genera of dinosaurs."

Since 1981, the MacArthur Foundation has named 191 fellows and given away $50 million to remove "financial constraints" from the work of the gifted recipients. Prof. Babbitt and Mr. Horner are the 10th and 11th present or former Princeton University faculty or staff members to receive the prestigious award.

Current faculty members who have won awards include Lawrence Rosen, professor of anthropology; Joseph H. Taylor and Edward Witten in the Physics Department; Carl Schorske and Robert Darnton, history; Elaine Pagels, religion; and James Gunn, astronomy.

Bleiman will serve as chair of a 2800-member Coalition, the largest grass-roots group working for global nuclear disarmament in the state, with ten active chapters and offices in Princeton, Trenton and Red Bank. His emphasis will be on programs to network support among disparate groups for initiatives to slow, and eventually reverse, the arms race.

Mr. Bleiman is presently assistant dean in the graduate program of the Woodrow Wilson School at Princeton University, where he has served since 1968. He has a master's degree in public administration from Harvard University. He retired as a lieutenant colonel from the Army in 1968 where his duties included a number of foreign postings as well as serving as a strategic planner under the Assistant Secretary of Defense.

Mr. Bleiman has been a member of Township Committee and was Mayor of the Township from 1973 to 1976. He has also served on the Regional Planning Board, the Municipal Consolidation Study Commission, the Citizen's Committee for Consolidation of Princeton Township and Princeton Borough, and the board of the Corner House Foundation.

Niels Nielsen of Princeton and Anne Bussis of Hopewell have been elected vice-chairpersons of the Coalition, replacing Barbara Johnson, who held that post for five years. In the additional position, the Coalition Steering Committee will be expanding its base and building coalitions with a broader range.

$1,530 in Cash and Checks Stolen from YMCA Safe

Cash and checks in the amount of $1,530 were stolen last week from a safe located in a closet in an office in the YMCA building on Paul Robeson Place.

Chief Michael Carnevale reported that the safe, entered between 10:30 last Tuesday evening and 4 the next morning, had not been forced open. Asked if there were any suspects in the robbery, Chief Carnevale replied, "We're not sure what we have at this time."

The initial police investigation of the entry, discovered by a custodian, revealed that someone had forced open an office door and, once inside, had removed the hinges from the closet door where the safe was located.

There were no signs of forced entry into the building itself, although the investigating officer, Ptl. Ronald Wohlschlegel reported finding an open window in a rest room.

The money and checks were inside an envelope. Nothing else was taken, police said.

The investigation is being continued by the department's Detective Bureau.

Bank Door Shattered. Between 7 and 11:55 Monday evening, a glass door between the foyer and front office area of the N.J. National Bank branch, 194 Nassau Street, was shattered. However, no one, police said, gained access to the interior of the bank.

There was no evidence at the scene to reveal what had been used to break the glass, police commented, after talking to two maintenance men who discovered the shattered door. No alarm sounded when the door was broken, police said.

A thief entered a Longview Drive home last week and stole $770 in cash from an unlocked cabinet in a bedroom. Taken overnight, and discovered missing the next afternoon, were six $100 bills and another $100 in $10s and $20s.

Township police report there are no suspects.

A Devereux Avenue apartment was entered twice last week on successive days.

Capt. Jack Petrone reported that an intruder gained entry through a rear door sometime between 6:30 and 1:30 the next morning and took $295 in jewelry from a jewelry box on a bedroom bureau. The occupant told police she was not sure if she had left the door locked or not.

The next day, while the occupant was taking a shower between 12:30 and 12:50 in the morning, someone pushed in a bedroom screen and took $15

The Winners Are Listed In Picnic Poster Contest

The winning posters in the poster contest for the annual Landau Picnic for Senior Citizens were made by children in the summer day camp sponsored by the Recreation Department.

Winners in the 1st and 2nd grade category were Emily Hand, first; Brian Lanchester, second, and Ellie Esher, third; in 3rd and 4th grade, Kate Bittinger, first, Julie Hultz, second, and Joan Marie Saputo, third; 5th and 6th grade, Sara Stout, first, Chrissy Hoyer, second, and Lorie Schoenstein, third.

The annual picnic sponsored by the Landau family and store will be held on Thursday, July 31, from 4 to 6:30 at Prospect on the Princeton University campus. Sandy Maxwell will provide entertainment on the piano, and Rose Marie Cavanaugh on the accordion. Special guests will be residents of Princeton Nursing Home and Merwick.

There will be a Crazy Hat Contest judged by Borough Mayor Barbara Sigmund and Township Mayor Gail Firestone. A Crazy Hat Workshop will be offered at the Suzanne Patterson Center on Wednesdays from 1-3 to which all senior citizens are invited to bring any materials they may

To register for the picnic, seniors should sign up at the Senior Resource Center, 924-7108, before July 28. Transportation can be arranged.

Diner Leaves His Wallet; Someone Is $270 Richer

A Hibben Road resident paid more than he had intended for a meal last week.

He called a Leigh Avenue restaurant to report that he realized he had left his wallet behind on a table. Inside the $80 wallet, he said, was $270 cash.

The oversight became a theft when the restaurant claimed that no wallet was found on the table.

An employee of the Lamp-lighter Bookstore, 240 Nassau Street, placed her purse in a rear office on Friday. A half-hour later she discovered her purse had been unzipped and her wallet containing $22 was missing. Police report the victim is a Somerville resident.

Another wallet theft victim told Borough police last week that she had left her purse at noon in Nursery A of the main YMCA building. When she returned four hours later, she discovered $60 missing from her wallet. The wallet and purse had been left in the nursery.

Parked Cars Entered. In one of five thefts involving parked cars last week, an unlocked 1981 sedan parked on Bainbridge Street was looted of a Walkman tape player, portable radio and tape player, and two pairs of sunglasses. Total value: $320.

While a resident of John Street was swimming in the Community Park pool last week, someone entered his locked 1982 Porsche, parked in plain view of the street and pool, and removed a $400 stereo unit. The car was still locked upon the arrival of police.

A Plainsboro driver made it easy last week. Too easy. Parking her car in an area off Princeton-Kingston Road near Lake Carnegie to do some windsurfing, she left her car unlocked, both car windows down, and her purse under the front seat.

She lost her purse, $20 cash, a checkbook, pair of earrings and other items worth a combined $150.

She described two suspects she had seen in the area as black males, both with short hair and medium build. One was about 5-10 with a diamond in his left ear; the other was about 6-1.

Someone climbed through an open sun roof to enter a 1982 Toyota parked last week in the driveway of its Philip Drive owner. Taken were $150 from a wallet left in the car's console, three lighters and a package of cigarettes.

A $300 radar detector was removed from a '65 Olds of a Kendall Park resident while it was parked at Larini's service station, 272 Alexander Street. Police report a vent window had been pried open to enter the car.

A man's Fuji bicycle, locked to a railing at the railway station on lower University Place, was stolen Friday between 7:30 a.m. and 7 p.m. when its Princeton owner returned. It is valued at $250.

Skin Cancer Screening

A free skin cancer screening will be held at Princeton Medical Center on Tuesday, July 29, from 2 to 4.

The full body screening will be conducted in Lambert House by two dermatologists, Dr. Jerry Bagel of Hightstown and Dr. Steven Kaenoff of Princeton.

Since over-exposure to the sun is often associated with an increased risk for skin cancer, this mid-summer clinic will also serve as a reminder to be careful when outdoors.

For information, call 921-7700, ext. 4424.

Shoplifter Is Fined $305 For Stealing Lunch Meat

In Township Court last week, Kim Craig, 33, 1 Margerum Court, was fined $275 plus $30 to the Violent Crime Compensation Board for shoplifting.

Craig had been arrested four days earlier after William Dombroski, manager at the Acme Store in the Princeton Shopping Center, charged Craig with attempting to leave the store without paying for a $6.40 bag of luncheon meat. Craig was arrested, taken to police headquarters and later released, after Mr. Dombroski signed a complaint summons against him.

Keg Party Curtailed. Five Princeton youths were charged last week with drinking alcohol while under age. Police, in responding to a 11:35 p.m. call reporting a party going on in the parking area of the Princeton Day School skating rink, confiscated a half-empty keg of beer.

Charged at police headquarters were John C. Russo, 20, 59 Sayre Drive; David R. Sandere, 19, 17 Alexander Road; Alexander Meluskey, 18, The Great Road; Tobin D. Clark, 19, 130 Mercer Street; and Nathaniel McVey-Finney, 17, 15 Alexander Street.

The arresting officer was Officer James Strong.

Carl R. Klotz, 18, of Trenton, has been charged by Township police with possession of a controlled dangerous substance.

Klotz was arrested in the area of the Magie Apartments off Faculty Road where police had responded to investigate a report of two men tampering with motor vehicles.

Police did not encounter the suspects but found Klotz, who had in his possession a bottle pipe in which, Ptl. James Vandermark felt, was a residue of a CDS.

Capt. Jack Petrone said that police were not able to connect Klotz to the reported car tampering.

Trespasser Caught Twice. A Mechanicsburg, Pa. resident, David G. Bowers, 29, has been charged with trespassing on succeeding days on the Princeton University campus.

Bowers was found inside the Forbes College dormitory early last week and charged with trespassing after having been warned earlier. Less than 24 hours earlier, at 3:40 in the morning, he had been found trespassing in the same building. Bowers faces an August 12 hearing in Township court on both charges.

Princeton Man Punched While Walking on Leigh

David McAllister, 22, of 9 Lytle Street, was assaulted last week while he was walking on Leigh Avenue shortly before 9 p.m.

According to police, McAllister was confronted by a 200-pound white male who walked up to him and said something. The six-foot suspect, wearing a blue shirt, then struck McAllister in the face with his fist and a brief fight ensued.

McAllister, police said, could offer no explanation for the assault. He refused medical treatment.

Police searched the area for the suspect but could not locate him.

Motorcyclist Is Struck As Driver Fails To Yield

A car and a motorcycle collided Thursday on Cherry Hill Road at the intersection of Stuart Road.

The driver, Joanne M. Ellis, 55, of 436 Ewing Street, received a summons for failing to yield the right of way. She told Sgt. Mario Musso that as she was turning left onto Stuart, she didn't see the cycle coming in the opposite direction on Cherry Hill until it was 18 inches from the right corner of her windshield.

The cyclist, John R. Lasley, 59, 212 Cherry Valley Road, told the officer that he tried to steer left and avoid a collision when the Ford Escort suddenly turned in front of him but his Honda 450 CB cycle caught the right rear fender of the Ellis car.

taken to Princeton Medical Center. He was treated and later released.

Driver Falls Asleep. Last week, while driving in the afternoon on Route 206 some 700 feet south of Edgerstowne, Michael J. Stein of East Windsor fell asleep at the wheel of his 1984 Pulsar. He told police that he didn't remember anything.

His car crossed over the line and struck head on an '81 Citation operated by Gretchen Genz, 58, of Trenton.

Ticketed by Sgt. Musso for careless driving, Mr. Stein was treated at the Medical Center for lacerations of the face. Ms. Genz was treated at the same institution for chest injuries.

Good Police Work Cited In Two Teenage Charges

Good police work by two Township officers has been cited by Capt. Jack Petrone as the reason for subsequent charges against two Trenton teenagers.

One, aged 17, has been charged with possession of a stolen car, possession of a stolen pocketbook, and possession of a weapon (a steak knife.)

A 14-year-old companion has been charged with possession of stolen house keys. Both have been turned over to Township

Juvenile Officer Renn Kaminiski for processing.

Ptl. Stephan Hogancamp was on radar duty early last week on State Road, when he noticed a car enter the lot of the Howard Bank off Mount Lucas Road shortly after 11 in the evening. His suspicions were aroused when the driver backed in and shut off his engine.

When he noticed movement around the car and someone attempt to move behind bushes near the bank, he ordered the suspect to stop.

A national computer check revealed that the car had been stolen July 4 in Trenton. Inside the car was a pocketbook that, police learned after calling the owner, had been stolen from a car parked in a Wawa store lot in Hamilton Township.

A stakeout on the stolen car was maintained by Ptl. John Clausen, and when the 14-year-old suspect returned to the car, he was arrested. Police report he had a key ring with two house keys in his possession.

"This was a good piece of police work," commented Capt. Petrone.

Planning Is Underway For Stony Brook Gala

Planning is underway for the Stony Brook-Millstone Watershed Association's annual fundraising gala, "Decemberfest," which will celebrate its tenth anniversary this year. "Decemberfest," returning to its former time slot, will be held on Sunday, December 7, at the Hyatt-Regency. Sonia Osborne will chair the event with assistance from committee heads Elizabeth Bennett, Joan Emerick, Pam Great-house, Joan Lonergan, Betsy Payton, Ann Rose and Betty Sanford.

Included in the evening will be a live auction, special events, drinks and dinner. Among the offerings of the live auction will be a spring cleanup by Woodwinds. The donation includes a full crew, complete with truck and equipment, for a full day's cleanup and fixup on the winner's property.

Anyone interested in working on "Decemberfest" or donating to the live auction is asked to call the Watersheds office at 737-3735.

provide adequate medical aid and by operating in a negligent manner during the pursuit.

Borough Chief Michael Carnevale confirmed this week that a law firm retained by Mr. Kollar has filed a "notice of claim" on June 30, which was addressed to the Borough clerk.

Named as defendants are Chief Carnevale, Officers Dawson and Lozier, the Borough Police Department, the Borough of Princeton and "such others who may be discovered."

Because the chase ended in Princeton Township and the accident was investigated by Township police, Chief Anthony Pinelli also confirmed that the Township has received a similar notice of claim. It names himself, Sgt. Mario Musso, Ptl. Robert Buchanan, the Township police department, and the Township road department (for not properly maintaining Alexander Street) as defendants.

Chief Carnevale defended the actions of his officers. "The two officers involved in the attempted motor vehicle stop and pursuit," he commented, "acted properly and in accordance with policy and guidelines concerning motor vehicle pursuits."

Speaking slowly, and adding that he did not want to get into trying the charges in the newspapers, Chief Carnevale repeated that the "officers did everything that was proper and in accordance with the law. There is no foundation for these allegations."

For his part, Chief Pinelli declined to make any comments. "We'll just wait until it goes to the courts," he said.

The victim was pronounced dead at Princeton Medical Center at 1:47 the morning of May 1, 22 minutes after he had been transported from the accident scene by the Princeton First Aid and Rescue Squad.

Reports received later from a medical examiner reveal that the victim had a blood alcohol reading higher than the allowable minimum. Mr. Kollar said that he also intends to take legal action against the Township tavern where his son was allegedly observed before the accident.

Mr. Kollar has charged that Patrolmen Dawson and Lozier failed to provide his son with proper medical aid. He claimed that, although the two officers had an oxygen tank in their patrol car and are trained in CPR, they just let his son lie there.

He added that a photograph taken 90 minutes after the crash by a Township officer reveals that his son was still wearing his face mask helmet. It would have been impossible, said Mr. Kollar, to receive CPR treatment while still wearing that helmet.

In response, Chief Carnevale insists that the two officers evaluated the situation properly and took appropriate action.

Ptl. Dawson is a six-year veteran, having joined the Borough department in January, 1980; Ptl. Lozier will reach his third year of service next month.

The two officers had followed Kollar's weaving cycle down Alexander Street. They attempted to stop it, Chief Carnevale recalled, by activating their patrol car siren and overhead lights.

"The cyclist refused to stop and took off at a high rate of speed. He acted in a careless and reckless manner which led to the accident — and his death."

Ptl. Lozier said later that he saw the cycle strike the guard rail. It tore a portion of the rail down and continued some 12 feet in the air before hitting some small trees. The victim was thrown from the cycle and those at the scene said that the cycle came to rest on top of him.

The two Borough officers are believed to be the only witnesses to the accident. Sgt. Musso, the Township traffic safety officer, was quoted later as saying that the speedometer on the cycle had locked on a point indicating the victim was speeding in excess of 80 miles an hour, but the officer declined to indicate what the exact speed was.

Protests about Mr. Lyon Answered by McCarter

To the Editor of Town Topics:
There has been a significant amount of coverage in the local press recently concerning McCarter Theatre's "insulting" treatment of Milton Lyon. The two instances of this treatment most often cited are Mr. Lyon's recent "dismissal" after 25 years, as director of McCarter's annual PJ&B production, and the omission of his name from McCarter's brochure commemorating the completion of Phase One of its renovation program.

The conclusion has been drawn by the public and the press that these two situations are linked and therefore symptomatic of McCarter's general attitude toward Mr. Lyon on the whole. Nothing could be further from the truth.

I have been employed by McCarter Theatre for six years as its Director of Communications. During that time I have never heard Nagle Jackson or Alison Harris utter a negative word in association with Mr. Lyon. To the contrary, both have gone out of their way to ensure that Mr. Lyon was accorded the respect he deserved and that our PJ&B production was given every consideration our mainstage drama productions were given.

Mr. Jackson chose to hire another director for this season's PJ&B production. That is his prerogative as Artistic Director of the theatre. Mr. Jackson communicated an explanation of his decision to Mr. Lyon, not to the general public, as was appropriate.

As for the omission of Mr. Lyon from the commemorative brochure history — this certainly was a "major oversight" by the communications department as we were responsible for its content. That it "has got to be more than just an oversight" is simply not true. It was an unfortunate coincidence and nothing more, that Mr. Jackson chose to replace Mr. Lyon as director of the 1986 PJ&B production at the same time the communications department made the erroneous decision to begin McCarter's "recent" history section in its commemorative brochure with a list of the five artistic directors who have been associated with McCarter as a professional producing organization.

When this oversight was brought to our attention, we immediately set about rectifying it by printing an insert, which now accompanies the brochure, stating that Mr. Lyon founded McCarter's drama program in 1960.

It is most unfortunate that the press and the public concluded that Mr. Lyon has been "shamefully" treated by McCarter based on these two unrelated incidences. The TOWN TOPICS classified ads get results.

McCarter staff is by no means sitting around plotting against Mr. Lyon as has been intimated by some of the local press and some members of the Princeton community.

Rather, we are busily planning next season — the first full season in our newly renovated building where a lot of exciting changes will be introduced to the public including a repertory drama schedule, new subscription packages and, for 1986, a new director for PJ&B. To the best of my knowledge, Mr. Lyon and the McCarter management continue to be on cordial terms, maintaining a position of mutual respect while paving the way for future collaboration.

It is our sincere hope that the air can be cleared of the confusion surrounding this issue, and that the very special tradition of PJ&B can continue to bring high-quality community oriented productions of beloved musicals to the McCarter mainstage in the standard set by Mr. Lyon over the past 25 years.

Subscription Cancelled To McCarter Theatre

To the Editor of Town Topics:
Following is the text of an open letter I have written to Linda Kinsey, Director of Communications, McCarter Theatre.

I will not be renewing my subscription to McCarter Theatre this year, nor my membership in McCarter Associates. I had been considering this move on and off during the past two seasons, but the decision was made for me when I read of Milton Lyon's replacement as director of the next PJ&B production.

If Mr. Lyon was replaced because "a quarter of a century is a long time for any person to be doing the same job" (Princeton Packet June 6 quoting Mr. Jackson), then perhaps it is time to examine Mr. Jackson's position in the same light.

I have yet to see a PJ&B production that was not thoroughly enjoyable, but I cannot say the same for many of Mr. Jackson's productions these past few years. While I agree that the theatre must continue to present new plays by new playwrights, newness alone is not enough to warrant a production which seems to cater solely to the professional needs of the playwright, director, and actors, rather than to the entertainment of the supporting public.

Not only has Nagle Jackson lost sight of the original purpose of PJ&B, but in my opinion he seems to be treating McCarter Theatre more as a training school for theatre professionals, rather than as an entertainment medium.

Nagle Jackson seems to be on an extended ego trip, and I for one do not care to go along with the ride.

Another Voice Is Added Supporting Milton Lyon

To the Editor of Town Topics:
The following is a copy of a letter I have sent to the Board of McCarter Theatre:

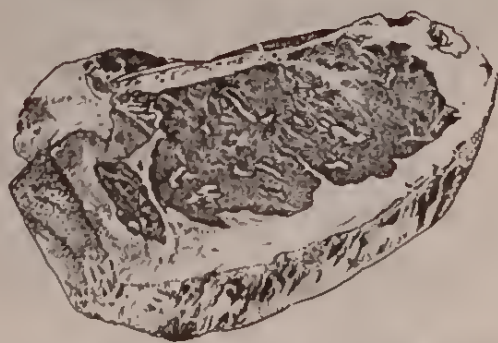

May I add my words to the many, written and spoken, protesting McCarter's decision about Milton Lyon and PJ&B. I am aware that the management is responsible for artistic decisions, which, I am informed, the Board considers this to be. I assume, therefore, that the Board goes along with the decision and with the fact that it purportedly received no advance notice of the management's intentions. I take issue both with the action of the management and the apparent concurrence of the Board. May I explain why.

Obviously, selection of plays, casting, scheduling, and everything connected with them are artistic decisions and therefore the prerogative of the management. However, it seems to me that public relations are the concern of the Board. Why have a Board if not to augment the work of management in raising funds? And if public relations are damaged, certainly that affects the Board's ability to raise funds. Ergo, shouldn't the Board have been informed, if not consulted, of a management decision that quite predictably has severely damaged the image McCarter has worked hard to create?

PJ&B, The Nutcracker, and, more recently, Christmas Carol have been McCarter's dependable, continuing, involving, community-wide winners. I don't understand the "new approach" to PJ&B; and I do believe it has done McCarter much damage, first because of how it was handled with Milton Lyon, and second because it seems quite obvious that the changes made by McCarter have doomed the popular PJ&B to a slow, if not immediate, death. I say this for three reasons:

1) Bad timing — many people are unavailable for casting and rehearsing in July, August and early September;

2) Selection of HMS Pinafore a dubious one — admittedly an opinion, but one that seems to be widely shared.

3) Dismissal of a director who has known, and has had the loyal support of, the community for many years; who handles amateurs and pros, adults, teenagers, and children, molding them into a near-professional theatrical whole; who is able to produce actors, musicians, designers, costumers, etc., sometimes on a moment's critical notice; who knows not only stagecraft but musical theatre like the back of his hand; and who can play a hot accompanying piano to boot. In short, there is no understudy for Milton Lyon, who is PJ&B.

I don't suppose there is anything the Board could, if it would, do now to change the situation. I am only writing to stand up and be counted among the PJ&B supporters who are shocked and sad over what seems to many of us a misguided and mishandled move on the part of McCarter.

Some Riverside Parents Support Richard Donges

To the Editor of Town Topics:
On July 3, Mr. Richard Donges, a former teacher in the Princeton Regional School District, was indicted on charges of sexual assault in the school. The indictment terminates an investigation into his conduct that began last March.

The signers of this letter are parents of children in his third grade class this last year (1985-86). We write to express our support for Richard Donges.

Our experience has been that he was an outstanding and effective teacher, who cared about each child in his classroom. We were pleased to have our children in his class.

If You Print My Name Please Spell It Correctly

To the Editor of Town Topics:
"Don't believe everything you read in the papers."

Readers of TOWN TOPICS' July 9 issue who know Phyllis Teitelbaum, Anthony Lunn, Harriet Artzt, or William Glas were probably startled to read that we had been fined $50 each in criminal court for violating the Borough's noise ordinance. Anyone who knows the four of us would find it difficult to picture us having riotous parties on Hawthorne Avenue.

Well, let us reassure them — it was simply a slight error on the part of TOWN TOPICS. Yes, we were involved in the case — but we were the ones who filed the complaints, not the defendants! The article failed to mention the actual defendant, Yetta Rushford, at all. Mr. Rushford pleaded guilty and was fined $50 on each of our complaints.

But TOWN TOPICS' more serious errors were in the spellings of our names — reported as Phyllis "Tietelbaum," Anthony "Lumm," and Harriet "Aratz." In future, if TOWN TOPICS decides to report us as having been fined for a crime we did not commit, please do at least try to spell our names correctly.

PHYLLIS TEITELBAUM
ANTHONY LUNN
47 Hawthorne Avenue

Editor's Note: TOWN TOPICS pleads guilty to the first charge of turning the four complainants in the case into defendants. A corrected story appears on Page 2. On the second charge of misspelling the names of those involved, it also pleads guilty, but does have an explanation. The four names were taken directly from the official Princeton Borough Court Calendar, a source that has always been very accurate in the past.

Another Success Marked By July 4th Pops Concert

To the Editor of Town Topics:
We of the Board of the NYSO League along with the Chamber of Commerce want to thank all those who bought tickets for the recent "Centennial Salute to the Statue of Liberty" - 4th of July Pops Concert and Fireworks. It has been building in popularity each year and has now become a Princeton institution.

Nature smiled on us again, presenting as near-perfect a day as could be ordered. The 15,000 plus in the audience brought their picnic spreads to the fields and were allowed in at 5:30 sharp. The music began at 7:30 with a program of Pops which seemed to please all comers. The evening ended with favorite Sousa marches and a spectacular display of fireworks. The lady was well celebrated in Princeton!

The NJSOL, because of this benefit concert, will again be bringing free symphony concerts by our own N.J. Symphony Orchestra to children of the area as well as the sponsorship of NJSO Young Artist Auditions and other special projects.

Public Library Adopts a Whale To Encourage Summer Reading

The children's department at the Public Library has adopted a female humpback whale for the summer.

Her name is Silver, from Long John Silver, the wooden-legged pirate of Treasure Island. Humpback whales are an endangered species, and researchers have found that humpbacks have such distinctive tails that they can be used to identify individual whales. Silver is more unusual than most — she has lost one of her tail flippers — but she is spotted almost every summer in the Stellwagen Bank area off Cape Cod.

She was "adopted" through the Whale Adoption Project of the Center for Coastal Studies at Woods Hole, Mass. She will be the mascot for this summer's reading program for children, which focuses this year on whales and other sea creatures as well as adventures at sea. Activities include a nautical adventure game (read a book to start at Square One, and advance another square for each additional book read), an afternoon of sea songs and fish stories, and several films on sea animals and adventures.

Children are invited to stop by the children's room at the library to sign up for the Summer Reading Club.

A Tiger in My Tank — But No Sugar Thank You

When Frederick Mich of New Brunswick was leaving a doctor's office at the 601 complex on Ewing Street last week, he saw a person pouring a substance into the gas tank of his 1979 VW Rabbit.

He believed the substance was sugar, and police have charged the suspect, Anthony Susezcynski, 57 Leigh Avenue, with criminal mischief. Mr. Mich told Ptl. Robert Buchanan that he knew the suspect prior to the incident.

In a second act of criminal mischief, Township police report that an outside mirror was broken off a 1979 Toyota while it was parked in the lot of the West Drive university apartment complex off Alexander Road.

Damage was estimated at $40.

GOING BACK
The following column, an occasional feature in TOWN TOPICS over the years, recounts highlights from the town's history as reported in this newspaper

FIVE YEARS AGO
Collins Development announced plans to appear before the Planning Board to present some changes in its Palmer Square Development plan. The office building was to be moved and made smaller; the kiosk was to replace the Palmer Square fountain; the Post Office site was to be shifted; and the number of parking spaces was to be reduced. The strike of garbage collectors in the Borough ended after seven days. If a settlement hadn't been reached, Borough residents were to embark on a complicated procedure for separating and getting rid of their garbage.

Albert Hinds, 79, 227 John Street, was guest of honor at a dinner given by Borough Mayor Robert W. Cawley and the Borough Zoning Board. Mr. Hinds, who had retired from the Zoning Board the previous year, had served for 20 years, longer than any other member. A Republican, he had been appointed more than 20 years earlier by Borough Mayor Raymond F. Male, a Democrat.

A brand new Chevrolet Citation four-door sedan was selling for $6295, and a four-bedroom house on Princeton-Kingston Road was renting for $725 a month. On the market were a three-story Victorian house on Greenview Avenue in the Borough for $142,500 and a three-bedroom house in the western section for $155,000.

On the crime front, the Borough's meter thief struck again, opening more than 200 meters with a key and taking about $625 in coins. The police characterized the culprit as "very good." Mike's Tavern maintained its one-game lead in the Princeton Women's Softball League with a 7-1 victory over Conte's. In a dispute arising out of the renegotiation of the rights to broadcast the Tigers' football and basketball games, Princeton University and WHWH parted company. The Princeton radio station announced it would carry Rutgers football in the fall.

McPherson resigned his post some three years after the School Board had asked him to step down. The resignation ended a long-running and often bitter feud between the superintendent and the board. The settlement with Dr. McPherson, who had tenure, included a payment to him of $45,000 and an agreement that he would refrain from taking any legal action against the board.

The town celebrated July 4 of this bi-centennial year at Palmer Stadium with fireworks and the appearance of two drum and bugle corps. The sound of bells at 2 p.m. on Sunday, July 4, part of the nationwide celebration, also signalled the start of a tour of the Princeton Battlefield. Borough Council voted 4-0 to re-name Avalon Place Paul Robeson Place to honor the Princeton born singer-actor-scholar-activist. There were protests before the Council vote, both against Paul Robeson's politics and in support of maintaining the Avalon name. This was the name of the Henry Van Dyke mansion razed to build the present "Y." A division of Collins Uhl Hoising Anderson on State Road was awarded a contract by the Kingdom of Saudi Arabia for the design of an international bicycle racing complex to be constructed as part of a new Sports City in the Arabian capital of Riyadh.

FIFTEEN YEARS AGO

Princeton Regional teachers and the School Board completed a series of three meetings during which they discussed what teacher spokesman William Bux called "abrupt changes" in the school system.

Among teachers' concerns was the naming of Alfred Seitz as acting principal almost immediately after the resignation of Florence Burke and without the standard search process; vandalism; and student absenteeism.

Borough Council voted against its members receiving pay ($750) for their services, but Councilman Robert Hendry promised to introduce in August a proposal to place the question on the November ballot.

Council, however, did vote to raise the mayor's pay from $500 to $1,000. Mayor Robert Cawley was embarrassed; he hadn't favored the raise.

A one-pound can of Maxwell House coffee was on sale at Davidson's for 69 cents. Stew beef was 99 cents a pound; Sara Lee chocolate cake was 59 cents; and Del Monte tomato sauce cost nine cents a can.

Princeton's Policeman's Benevolent Association sent out a call to the community for financial assistance. The joint Princeton-West Windsor Group had been funded for the past five years only by business and private citizens, but rising costs and an increase in the numbers of youth it served led to this appeal.

The Rev. Dr. Robert P. Montgomery, Presbyterian chaplain of Princeton University for the past 15 years, was named associate professor of philosophy at the John Jay College of Criminal Justice of the City University of New York.

FORTY YEARS AGO

The town was in the midst of a housing, and particularly rental, squeeze that was matched only by the post-World War II period. Some owners were refusing to advertise vacancies because they said the phone never stopped ringing.

The mounting pressure on Princeton rentals was coming from several sources, including old timers who had sold their big houses and were looking for smaller and more affordable housing and Princeton University graduate and undergraduate students.

The English Shop advertised that it was the only shop in town with clothes for men and women; Wash-O-Mat offered to wash and dry nine pounds of laundry for $1.50, and New Jersey National Bank was offering gourmet cookware to anyone who opened a savings account.

At a Township hearing on the proposed ordinance to set up a joint planning board with the Borough, 19 spoke against the measure and 13 in favor.

Township residents who were against the idea took the Borough to task for what the speakers felt was its poor planning, its "impractical" master plan, its dead-end streets, its "pitiful" wading pools for children, and its refusal to give full credit to the Township for payments the latter made for police and fire protection, sewage disposal, and school tuition fees.

The Bride Wore Boots with Barbara Stanwyck and Robert Cummings, at The Playhouse, was called "fairly good only." And filmgoers who dote on strong talk and gun play were targeted as the audience of Badman's Territory, with Randolph Scott, at The Garden.

J.W. Miller's Sons was offering to install a motor stoker in any coal furnace, thus assuring automatic coal heat.

Princeton housewives, led by Mrs. Robert C. McManus, Service League president, formed Militant Marketers less than 24 hours after federal price controls had expired.

They vowed to stop buying if prices became exorbitant and said they'd open an information center, possibly at 130 Nassau Street, to quote the latest OPA prices.

Dr. G. Edwin Manser Jr., formerly Major, U.S. Army, announced his return to the practice of dentistry at 84 Nassau Street.

A display of water colors of the University Campus was scheduled for The Little Gallery on Palmer Square. They were done by Julian E. Garnsey, painter, architect, and the man who planned the color scheme at the World's Fair.

The Music Shop at 16 Nassau Street advertised that it had a Decca album with selections from Call Me Mister, the original cast recording of St. Louis Woman and new releases by Bing Crosby and Jimmy Durante.

For the first time in a decade, the annual inspection of the Fire Department was rained out. Members of each company were inspected at headquarters by the mayor and council.

Princeton Lions sponsored an air show at the Nassau Airpark on the Brunswick Pike. Princeton Hospital was to benefit.

A house at 54 Tulane Street was offered for sale at $17,000, while houses at 183 and 185 Harrison Street were on the market for $6,500 each.

Improvements Planned For Mercer County Park

Major improvements planned for Mercer County Park in West Windsor will include new hiking trails, a scenic overlook, a new park ranger headquarters and additional parking and restrooms.

The park will furnish benches at a scenic overlook (3) on a bluff at the wide end of Lake Mercer.

The soccer playing fields will have new restrooms (4), and new hiking trails (5) measuring 1.5 miles will be cut through the woods on the south side of the lake.

A new 40-car parking lot (2) will serve the scenic overlook, hiking trails, and existing bike paths.

In order to increase efficiency, a new maintenance building and park ranger headquarters totaling 9,000 square feet (1) will be constructed at the end of South Post Road. This facility will centralize the administration of park activities which, until now, have been housed in structures throughout the park.

In addition, the next substantial rain storm is expected to fill up the new lake that has been developed at Dam Site 21 across Mercerville-Edinburg Road, adjacent to the Mercer County Vocational-Technical School.

The shoreline will be professionally landscaped and a new picnic area will be built.

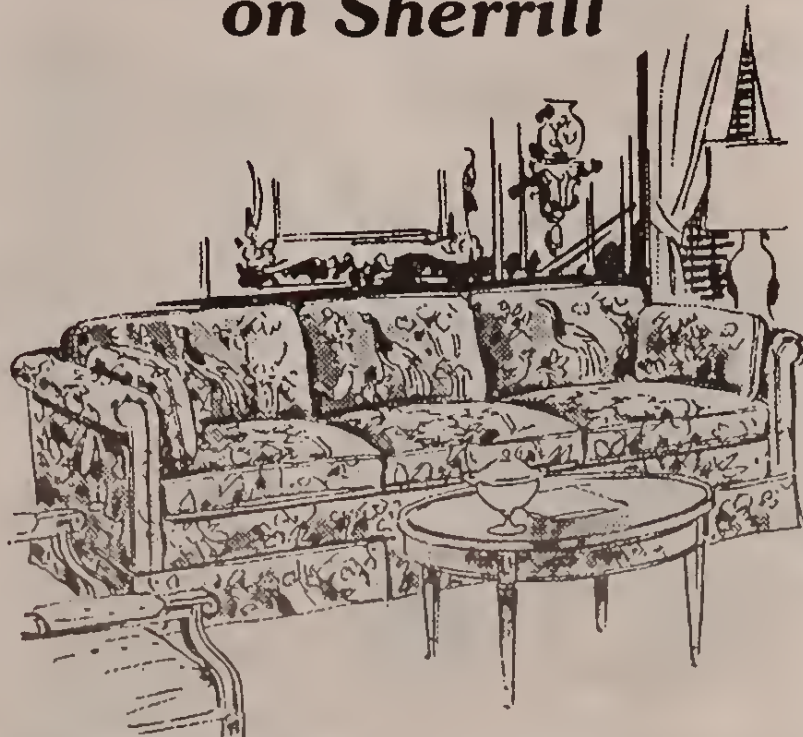

For further information, call the Mercer County Park Commission at 989-6530.

Parks

One of the first problems one encounters in preparing a survey of Princeton parks and reservations is uncertainty as to the exact number of acres that are owned. Inventories available from the Recreation Department or the Planning Board differ from each other and from the "official" Open Space map that dates back to 1979.

For instance, Community Park is listed by the Recreation Department (which operates it) as 27 acres, and 71 in Community Park North, whereas the breakdown in another inventory is 55 acres acquired as Harrop tract for Community Park North and 48 acres (in some places shown as 40 acres) acquired from Agnes Pyne Coke as Princeton Community Gardens, the south side of Route 206.

Similarly, Woodfield Reservation is listed as 102.8 acres in one place and 104.8 in another. Herrontown Woods is also shown as 139.9 acres in one place and 149.9 in another. James Sayen, whose unofficial 1986 update of his original 1979 open space inventory was a source for the TOWN TOPICS survey, acknowledges that "not knowing what we have" is one of the problems of the entire open space program.

"We keep asking the (Township) engineering department to get out and make surveys for us, but they are so darn busy they can't get to it," Mr. Sayen says. Peggy MacNeill, chairwoman of the Joint Environmental Commission concurs.

In addition, the 1979 Open Space Map is not synchronized with the 1979 Open Space inventory. Fourteen acres along Rosedale Road by the Johnson Park School are listed as an "existing" park in the 1979 inventory and carried forward by Mr. Sayen on his 1986 update, whereas they are shown on the map as "proposed" open space reservation.

Similarly, 44 acres of "Twp. Sewer Field" — actually in joint Borough-Township ownership and recently considered by the Borough as a site on which to fulfill its Mt. Laurel housing obligation — are tallied under "existing" parks and playgrounds in the inventory and shown as "proposed" on the map.

For its part, the Recreation Department uses a 1978 bicycle map prepared by the then active Princeton Bicycle Use Committee of the Township Transportation Commission as its visual reference to Princeton open space. This map, too, has errors.

More noticeable to the general public, however, is the matter of maintenance of parks and reservations. Who keeps the trails trimmed of exuberant growth, saws up fallen limbs, repairs bridges, and puts down woodchips as bare roots become exposed from hard use?

Volunteer Caretakers. At one time, not too long ago, according to Mr. Sayen, each of Princeton's major parks had a committee of volunteer citizens who took on that park as its special responsibility. There were very active groups for Woodfield Reservation, Autumn Hill Reservation and the Wildlife Refuge, for instance.

Today, Andrew Love and his wife, a young couple who live and work at Tenacre Foundation across the Great Road, have "adopted" Woodfield Reservation and fulfill this function as individuals. John Clausen of the Township Public Works Department will bring out a load of wood chips now and again, which Mr. Love spreads by wheelbarrow load.

But he is one individual, who may or not remain at Tenacre, and moreover, Mr. Sayen asks, is it fair to count on his good will to maintain a whole park for the benefit of the citizens of Princeton?

At one time, too, before state and federal funds dried up, there was money available to the municipality to employ young people during the summer months to cut brush and perform other chores in the parks and along the roads. Young people need supervision, and it is not clear which department — Public Works, Recreation, or even the school system — would perform that function nowadays, even if monies were available for hiring youth in the summer months.

Furthermore, Mr. Sayen suggests "we are not utilizing our passive open space to the ultimate." At one time, the volunteer citizens committees (he calls them "these loving amateurs") would organize spring walks in the parks. These walks served a dual purpose of introducing residents to the various parks and of focusing attention on park needs.

According to Mrs. MacNeill, the Environmental Commission, which could take on this role, has its hands full with a variety of concerns, from serving as a watch dog for sewer rehabilitation to monitoring state highway plans, county solid waste disposal, and local development, to pondering deer management and advising on Turning Basin Park. Moreover, Mrs. MacNeill says her own interest is more in the acquisition of open space than its later use.

In suggesting that a study commission examine the centralization of management of Princeton parks, the GMIP report harkens back to a 1975 report by an ad hoc Committee of Borough and Township on Parks and Recreation. That report, signed by Barbara Smoyer, then a member of Township Committee, recommended the hiring of an environmental officer to work with the Recreation Department and the Environmental Commission.

Operationally, according to this report, the duties of such a person would include patrolling all areas designated for passive recreation, making repairs when feasible and reporting conditions to a citizens committee for appropriate action. The person would also be assigned to plan and supervise the work effort of high school and college students during the summer and would initiate conservation activities with volunteer organizations such as the Boy Scouts and the garden clubs.

Administratively, the environmental officer would examine undeveloped areas to determine if they should be acquired for open space and monitor developments in other adjacent communities which might impact on Princeton. According to this report, he or she would also conduct the information and education program of the Environmental Commission, by giving talks, conducting tours and answering inquiries from the general public.

Mnney was never appropriated by the two municipalities to fund such a position, and the proposal was shelved.

Several months before he resigned, former Township Mayor Winthrop S. Pike appointed Township Committeeman Tom Poole to look into matters of jurisdiction, responsibility and maintenance of Princeton parks. Mr. Poole is working with Township Engineer Robert V. Kiser and Recreation Assistant Director Jack Roberts on these matters.

BUSINESS

Squibb Spin-Off Due In Fourth Quarter '86

Squibb Corporation has announced that it intends to spin off its medical systems business to its stockholders. Squibb's medical systems business is comprised of three operations: Advanced Technology Laboratories, a leading manufacturer of ultrasound imaging equipment; Space-labs, Inc., a major producer of patient-monitoring products; and Squibb Medical Systems, which will be renamed, a manufacturer and distributor of ultrasound equipment and other medical systems outside the U.S.A.

The new company, to be named Westmark International Incorporated, will be one of the larger medical electronics companies in the world and the largest dedicated to ultrasound and patient monitoring.

Squibb said that a revenue ruling had been received that the spin-off would be tax-free to the Squibb stockholders, with Squibb retaining approximately 10% common stock interest in the new entity. It is contemplated that the action will occur in the fourth quarter of 1986 and that details regarding the record date and the number of shares to be distributed will be made public at that time.

Richard M. Furlaud, chairman and chief executive officer of Squibb, said that Westmark's new chairman and chief executive officer would be Dennis C. Fill. Mr. Fill is currently the president and chief operating officer of Squibb Corporation. He became president of E.R. Squibb & Sons, Squibb's pharmaceutical business, in 1968.

With respect to Squibb's commitment to the new venture, Mr. Furlaud said, "as Westmark's largest stockholder, with 10% equity, we have a stake in seeing it grow. That's why we are spinning off a currently profitable, well-financed and debt-free company."

He also said the objective was to maximize the value of this business for the Squibb stockholders by allowing it an environment that enables it to grow and prosper to a greater extent than might be possible as a Squibb subsidiary. He added that the move would also permit Squibb to focus its efforts and resources more directly on its other businesses.

Concomitantly with the announcement of the spin-off, Squibb Corporation announced that Jan Leschly, currently a group vice president of Squibb, had been elected an executive vice president and, as such, would join Richard M. Furlaud, chairman, Dennis C. Fill, president, and Dr. Charles A. Sanders, executive vice president, in the office of the chief executive.

Mr. Leschly was elected a group vice president in January, 1984, and was elected to the Board of Directors in May, 1984.

He will assume the additional title of president of Squibb Corporation when the spin-off becomes effective, and Mr. Fill becomes the chairman and chief executive officer of the new company.

ARE YOU A USER???
Part II
with Sam DeTuro
Woodwinds Associates
9. SIGNAL WORDS - indicate the level of toxicity of the chemical. 10. (FIRST AID) PROCEDURES - in case of inhalation, swallowing or contact with eyes and skin. 11. USE STATEMENT - the pesticide will be labeled "General Use" or "Restricted Use". General use pesticides will not cause serious harm to humans or to the environment when used properly. They are available to the general public. On the other hand, a restricted use pesticide is extremely dangerous and can be purchased only by certified applicators (such as an arborist). 12. DIRECTIONS FOR USE - this section tells you what pests are controlled and on which crops the chemical can be used. It essentially tells you how, how much, where and when to apply the pesticide. It also gives directions on storage, mixing, disposal and empty-container disposal. From the information provided, you can see that the pesticide label not only instructs you on usage but can assist you in selecting a less dangerous yet effective product.
If you are a "user" keep the following rules in mind: 1. Treat all chemicals, even the supposedly safe products, as if they were extremely dangerous. 2. Wash yourself and your clothing immediately after usage. 4. Use the appropriate equipment, and wear proper clothing. 5. Read and follow all directions on the pesticide label, for it can prolong your life. Repeated exposure to chemicals can affect your health.
Last, but certainly not least, are the explanations for signal words. CAUTION - Low toxicity or relatively free from danger. It requires from an ounce to more than a pint to kill an adult human. WARNING - Moderately toxic. It takes one (1) to three (3) teaspoons to kill an adult human. DANGER - Extremely toxic. Less than a teaspoon can kill an adult human.
A well dressed applicator should be wearing shoes, sufficient clothing, gloves, goggles and a respirator, so that he/she is protected from direct contact and inhalation. Leaving skin exposed when applying poisons subjects you needlessly to possible harm, both from direct exposure and absorption. Call the experts when in doubt!!! Call WOODWINDS (924-3500).

Princeton Parks, Refuges, Arboretums and Reservations Provide Opportunity for Enjoying Nature in All Seasons

TRANQUIL SPOT: Where two streams converge in the heart of Woodfield Reservation there is this bridge, and a couple of plank benches on which to rest and contemplate the dappled sunlight on the surrounding greenery. Woodfield trails are narrow and offer hilly as well as flat terrain.

Princeton has a number of parks and reservations designed for passive recreation at various locations throughout the community.

Each has its own particular characteristic. Some have been adapted for picnicking and easy walking two abreast; some offer narrow hiking trails and the sensation of being "in the middle of nowhere," even in this built-up community. Still others are undeveloped, little-known and barely used.

All present opportunities for bird-watching in spring and summer, animal-tracking in winter snow, photographing, painting, discovering and observing nature in all seasons.

TOWN TOPICS presents a survey of these areas, starting with the northern sector of the Township.

WOODFIELD RESERVATION

Description: 102.8 acres in an irregularly shaped tract in the northwest Township. Several parcels, totalling 52 acres, were purchased at various times by Township with Borough contribution; 50 acres are privately owned, with legal agreement for municipal use and an option for future purchase.

Access: gravel drive and parking area at sign off The Great Road; footpath access from Drakes Corner Road.

Hours: One hour before sunrise to one hour after sunset.

Features: Well-marked and individually named trails laid out in varying lengths through oak, ash, tulip, hickory and beech woods. At a spot where two small streams converge, there are two wooden plank benches and a wooden bridge. One of the trails leads to the rock outcropping known as Council Rock, another to Tent Rock.

Facilities: Painted map of trails on large display board at parking area; trash receptacle.

Prohibitions: No fires, firearms, horseback riding, motorized vehicles; injuring or taking wild animal life; picking or injuring flowers, plants, trees; littering or dumping.

Permit: required from Township Clerk for use by groups of 25 or more.

WITHERSPOON WOODS

Description: 45 acres of undeveloped woodlands south of Stuart Road. The rectangular tract was given to the Township by Mary Pardee in 1977.

Access: The 60-foot right-of-way leading into the tract from Stuart Road, opposite Bouvant Drive, is marked by a large wooden sign, but there is no trail at that point.

Features: The land was originally part of Tusculum, the 18th-century stone homestead of the Rev. John Witherspoon, signer of the Declaration of Independence and president of the College of New Jersey. Huge boulders form Devil's Cave, well-known place of adventure to generations of Princeton youth before the access from Cherry Valley Road was closed to the public. Close to a Stuart Road residence is an old quarry, source of the stone for Tusculum and other 18th-century Princeton structures. There is also an old foundation nearby.

Faint trails may be picked up here and there, but the rock-strewn area to the north is not easy to walk across. A stream cuts through the middle of the woods, heading toward the tract known as Mountain Lakes, which Township Committee is considering purchasing with the help of Green Acres grants and loans for open space. The two tracts are not contiguous, but it is hoped that access may in time be provided through the neighboring Winant property. Deer abound in Witherspoon Woods.

Prohibitions: The deed of gift prohibits hunting or sports, lumbering or quarrying, roads or parking.

HERRONTOWN ARBORETUM

Description: 150 acres in northeast Township, between Snowden Lane and Herrontown Road. Donated to the citizens of Mercer County by Dr. and Mrs. Oswald Veblen, the woods are owned by Mercer County and operated by the Mercer County Park Commission.

Access: Paved roadway off Snowden Lane, marked with sign, leads to paved parking lot; footpath access from Herrontown Road, opposite Autumn Hill Road, where there is a dirt turn-off for parking.

Hours: May to October, one hour before sunrise to one hour after sundown. 8 a.m. to 5 p.m. rest of the year.

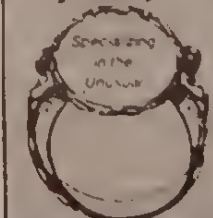

Features: Oswald Veblen was a world famous mathematician who was influential in the founding of the Institute for Advanced Study. Brought to Princeton University in 1905 by Woodrow Wilson, he is also credited with having influenced Einstein and other great mathematicians to join the Institute faculty many years later. The woods, where he strolled with colleagues, are the grounds surrounding the Veblen home, presently occupied by a caretaker. Included in the park are the cottage which Veblen used as a study, the small barn in which he kept his hunting horses, and a shed. Mrs. Veblen enjoyed gardening and planted masses of daffodils, wild hyacinths and other bulbs she collected in Europe.

Herrontown Woods is thus particularly beautiful in spring, when naturalists from the County and other other nature groups give tours. Trails of varying lengths lead off through the pine grove by the parking lot, where there is a map prominently displayed. Although the trails are

PETER PAN

Beautiful Production of "Belle of Amherst" Offers Rich Rewards for Attentive Listening

As I returned home from Stage One's The Belle of Amherst last week to see that I had time to catch the last half of The Love Boat still running — or rerunning — strong on Friday night TV after so many years, it became clear to me that, in the context of contemporary American culture, Catherine Allgor's presentation of the life of Emily Dickinson, at the Rider College Studio Theatre over the next two weekends, calls for two very different reviews.

If The Love Boat or Dallas or Dynasty is your idea of poignant, engrossing drama, or if your favorite leading man and lady are Rodney Dangerfield and Bette Midler, or if your idea of an entertaining evening at the theater is a double feature of Rambo and Cobra, then the quiet life of The Belle of Amherst might seem a bit bland.

While the Rambos of the mid-nineteenth century were venturing forth on their glamorous missions of war or business or exploration, Emily Dickinson, genius of American letters, retreated farther and farther into the recesses of her father's house and into the world of her mind and her poetry.

If, however, you are prepared to listen as attentively and thoughtfully as is required by challenging poetry, and if you find pleasure in glimpses of a life lived quietly and modestly, though with great sensitivity and intensity, this beautiful production, directed by Nick Procaccino, will richly reward your attention.

William Luce's play consists of material from Emily Dickinson's numerous letters, from her poetry — most of which, over 1700 poems, was found unpublished in a drawer in her room after her death at age 56 in 1886, and from speculation about connections between this written evidence and her life.

In this demanding one-woman show, Emily moves freely back and forth in time, "creating" some 15 different characters, as she herself ranges from a hopeful 15-year-old to the virtual recluse she became for the last third of her life.

Tour de Force. Ms. Allgor's performance is a tour de force, which required more than a year and a half of preparation, including visits to Emily's home, Amherst College and the Jones Library in Amherst, Massachusetts.

To hold the audience for almost two hours of a full-length, one-person show is no mean feat, and when the material is as subtle and fundamentally undramatic as the life of Emily Dickinson, the accomplishment is impressive indeed.

She establishes an immediate rapport with the audience, taking us into her confidence with candor and wit, as if we were welcome visitors in the Dickinson parlor, and sharing with us her secrets, her concerns, her deepest thoughts. We become Emily's accomplices in her encounters with her world.

Ms. Allgor shows great versatility in varying moods from despair to ecstasy, as she tells us about her strongest passions, her cake recipes or the deaths of her father, her mother and her nephew. Ms. Allgor makes you believe, and her Emily is just the sort of sensitive, alive, appealing person you cannot help but enjoy spending an evening with.

The Studio Theatre lends itself perfectly to the intimacy of this play, with the close proximity of the entire audience to the stage. Designed by Gene Ericson and Bill Hoover, the set, an attractive and highly functional representation of several different areas in the Dickinson household, and the lighting provide Ms. Allgor with the variety and the appearance of authenticity that she needs to help draw the audience into the play with her provocative, often humorous observations and questions.

Ms. Allgor's costume, designed most effectively by Ingrid Rothenberg from photographs and designs of Emily Dickinson's wardrobe, is a beautifully simple white dress with black boots. She puts on a purple apron and shawl for variety.

Near the end of the play, Emily confides to us:

This is my letter to the world
That never wrote to me
The simple news that Nature told

With tender majesty.

Her message is committed
To hands I cannot see.
For love of her, sweet countrymen,
Judge tenderly of me.

The audience, in watching The Belle of Amherst, has spent an inspirational and enlightening evening in the presence of one of the great literary minds of our country's history, and we have been the fortunate recipients of Emily Dickinson's "letter to the world," her writing brought to life in Ms. Allgor's distinguished presentation of William Luce's play.

The Belle of Amherst will run until July 27 on Thursdays, Fridays, Saturdays and Sundays. Performances are at 8 p.m. with one matinee on July 27 at 2 p.m. For information and tickets call 683-0444.

Princeton Rep Presents romcom, Romantic Comedy, at Broadmead

The Princeton Rep Company's latest production at the Broadmead Theatre (through July 27) is Phyllis Purscell's new two-act play, romcom: a Romantic Comedy. What makes this play as refreshing as a double scoop of cassis sherbet is its spoof of romantic comedy.

I'm not sure that this romcom isn't just another sitcom. The play's two characters, Kate and David, thrown together in a cafeteria by chance, find that they have things in common, though she has sworn off the charmingly unreliable type just when he has decided to try out that role for a change, tired of being rejected as boring by the opposite sex.

Kate and David do agree, in the tenth and last scene, that they really love one another. That union does follow the rules of comic resolution, though they refuse to make the audience any golden promises about their eternal happiness. romcom, however, is meant to lift up one's heart with a gently parodic touch, just like the drawing on the poster you'll see around town.

Playwright Purscell knows that a "romcom" version of sitcom — or theatre bordering on farce, consisting of nothing but dialogue, and trying not to cloy with terminal sweetness — isn't easy to write. The genre asks for Shaw's wit, Congreve's propriety, Chekhov's sophistication and O'Neill's pathos all rolled up into one, in order not to end up as another soap opera. The actors need the energy of the old Cary Grant teams. romcom is loaded with clever lines, and Carol Kehoe and Timothy Davis-Reed do a fine job here, delivering them as Kate and David.

For the character of Kate, the author chooses a junior editor at Harper and Row, whose corporate make-up, briefcase and doggedly forthright intelligence do not entirely update Ms. Kehoe's face, which is reminiscent of the women in Victorian portrait photographs. David, on the other hand, has a beard, wears suspenders, and tosses off distracting one-liners.

Endearing Interpretation. Mr. Davis-Reed presents a very endearing interpretation of the cavalier Kate is trying to avoid and carries it through right down to the very last scene. "Let's discuss free will," he appeals to Kate, as she tries to break away from their first meeting. "If there isn't any, then I can't hate axe murderers and presidential advisors."

He says he hasn't had any fun since "those first five foolish years" before Daddy sat him down on the eve of kindergarten to explain about SAT's. Alas, his struggles to become a writer of fables, since rejecting the world of SAT's, have drawn rejection slips saying things like "Dostoevsky would have written like this, without the genius."

One eventually feels, however, that the deprecating image David gives of himself is inconsistent with his approach to Kate. He reveals some sophistication in a casual comparison of Kate's coiffure to rococo wallpaper, as he simultaneously caresses the back of her neck with one hand and the edge of his wine glass with the other. Fortunately, Kate is drawn to the back of David's neck, too.

In another amusing scene, David is at a loss for words, while Kate is ingeniously excited, her state of mind quite in contrast with David's just-delivered description: "my first sight of this very New York, don't-look-at-me-or-I'll-call-the-cops back of the head."

The worst obstacle to the relationship, at least to Kate, is that David has fibbed about being married to win her trust. The crisis of the play is that he's not, after all, when usually it's the other way around. Isn't it? "romcom" spells reversal. If David's view of himself and Kate can't be trusted, then what is real?

This questioning of reality may have been what led Ms. Purscell, a writer of film scripts as well as plays, to use cinematic techniques, such as jump cuts, asides, repetition, and narration to build her play. If the main characters can stand aside to think out loud about what's going on, and then replay a whole scene together, they're telling you that life is confusing, even in a "romcom," where at least they can laugh about it's complexities.

Set designer Karl Lessig provides corrugated plastic drops and white curtains spattered with brown paint for all ten scenes. The drops are not really noticeable, although they may remind one subliminally of dirty cafeteria windows.

The curtains double well as limestone veneer in the cafeteria scenes and the alley walls in the park scenes, but the rococo wallpaper is left to the imagination. One more thing: listen for the introductory music by Pat Metheny. It's very pretty and haunting, but more appropriate to the romantic origins of "romcom" style than to its irony.

Two Double Features At Kresge Auditorium

Fitzcarraldo and Martin Guerre, two of the more enigmatic figures of recent European cinema, will join forces as the opening double bill in the fourth week of McCarter Theatre's Summer Cinema '86 series at Kresge Auditorium. The films will be shown Wednesday through Friday at 7 and 9:30, respectively.

Werner Herzog's Fitzcarraldo is an adventure comedy and epic spectacle which took its director five years to complete. Klaus Kinski stars as an opera-crazed fisherman who dreams of building an opera house in the Upper Amazon. To finance his dream, he sets out to make a fortune by opening up a tract of rubber trees on inaccessible land, a barrier he plans to overcome by hauling a large steamer over a mountain, all in one piece, and then relaunching it on the other side.

The effort of hauling and relaunching the steamer is the film's central focus, and the scenes detailing this task are as extraordinary as Herzog intended them to be. In his endeavor, Fitzcarraldo has the patient, loving support — and financial backing — of Claudia Cardinale, the madam of the most popular brothel in Iquitos. Fitzcarraldo's mad plan succeeds up to a point, for once on the other side of the mountain he discovers that the Indians have their own mystical reasons for transporting his boat: they send it into deadly rapids to appease their gods.

Daniel Vigne's Return of Martin Guerre was the most discussed foreign film of 1983. Its "true" story, which has been subject of a study by Princeton historian Natalie Zemon Davis, is that of a rich peasant (Gerard Depardieu) in the village of Artigat in the 1540's, who leaves his wife, young son, parents and property, and disappears for eight years. Then he reappears — apparently — and lives happily as a loving husband, father and worker, until he is accused of being an imposter.

An investigation begins, Martin is brought to trial, and has the court almost convinced as to his identity when the "real" Martin Guerre turns up, and the "imposter" is hanged.

On Saturday and Sunday, there will be a combination showing of Fellini's City of Women and Bergman's Cries and Whispers, a pair of films by two of the world's most renowned directors. City of Women is Fellini's imaginative voyage into the world of women and the world of male fantasies about them. The women that the film's bewildered and bemused hero (Marcello Mastroianni) encounters in his bizarre travels are right out of the Fellini fantasy world: female punk-rockers, female terrorists, female belly dancers, female Nazi cops, and female motorcycle daredevils.

Part travelogue, part vaudeville, part dream, part spectacle, City of Women was the target of heated controversy at the time of its release, and aroused both passionate at-

Thoroughly Delightful Offering in Hopewell: 'They're Playing Our Song' at Off-Broadstreet

"She's a flake, and I'm a flake, two flakes at the beginning of a snowstorm." That's how it starts, building to a blizzard of emotions. A triangle of love with just two characters on stage, composer Vernon Gersh (Matthew Wright) and lyricist Sonia Walsk (Christine Boger). The third side of the triangle is the ever-present, but never represented, Leon.

This is the basis of Off-Broadstreet Theatre's delightful new offering, They're Playing Our Song. The book is by Neil Simon, one of America's most prolific playwrights, with the story loosely based on the true-life relationship between the play's composer, Marvin Hamlisch, and lyricist, Carole Bayer Sager.

I continue to call it a play and not a musical, but the piece could carry either label. Since the theme is a romance between musical collaborators, the dialogue and the music naturally go hand in hand. Neil Simon's dialogue is strong and quick, just on the edge between comedy and drama. He has said that "many times when it's either laugh or cry, a lot of them (the audience) don't want to cry. And they pick out a moment — a line, a gesture, whatever it is — to laugh at." And there is plenty to laugh at in They're Playing Our Song. When Vernon's car breaks down, he says, "I think it's the distributor ... the guy who sold me the car."

But the play is filled with much more than an occasional one-liner, which made director Robert Thick's job of casting all the more difficult. He needed strong singers for the range of Hamlisch's music, and good actors who could pull off Simon's comedy without missing a beat.

Talented Lead. I wasn't disappointed. Matthew Wright as Vernon Gersh held the stage. I have heard him sing before, and have always been impressed with his talent. I especially liked the first number, "Fallin'." Vernon and Sonia's first collaboration and an omen for the future. But singing is not Mr. Wright's only talent; he readily took on the challenge of the often fast-paced dialogue and succeeded as the lovable but, yes, flaky, composer.

Mr. Wright is here on summer vacation from the University of California, where he is working on his Master of Fine Arts in acting. He has been in more than 50 productions, from works of Shakespeare to Rodgers and Hammerstein, and has been in four other Off-Broadstreet productions.

Opposite Vernon, the energetic lyricist, Sonia Walsk, is well-played by Christine Boger. She builds her character skillfully through the evening. At first she is a girl who has just unhappily turned 25, who feels guilt and responsibility towards her ex-boyfriend Leon and who lacks the means to buy any clothes except those with a theatrical history. (She first appears on stage in a "practically new" dress; it's only been worn through 38 performances and six previews of Chekhov's The Cherry Orchard.) She is quite good in the teary-eyed scene where Sonia finds herself trying once again to say a final goodbye to Leon, but this time at the prompting of Vernon.

By the second act, with the weight of Leon still to bear, and now the apparent loss of Vernon, she brings beauty to the song "I Still Believe in Love."

Ms. Boger is a recent graduate of the American Academy of Dramatic Arts in New York, and she is also a member of their 1986-87 production company. This is her first appearance with Off-Broadstreet Theatre.

When Sonia appeared in that first scene, I thought to myself, "What were the costume designers thinking?" But moments later I realized that was just the effect they wanted, and throughout the show the costumes, by Grant Prickett and Bill Esher, were equally appropriate and often quite amusing.

The accompaniment by Nelson Huber was enjoyable, with a twist I won't reveal. That twist, and others, were made possible by the set design of Mr. Thick, who made good use of the stage and audience space, giving the appearance of a much larger acting area.

The weakest element was the choreography. It was fine when Vernon and Sonia danced together, focused on each other, but at times the intimacy was broken and the "musical" took over with some showy dance steps which seemed out of place.

However, the snowstorm did build, the two flakes melted and froze, and melted again. They're Playing Our Song is quite an undertaking for any two actors, running 2½ hours. (The first act seemed a bit long, but I think the fault is in the play and not this production, and the overture and entr'acte music was unnecessarily lengthy.) But nevertheless, Mr. Wright and Ms. Boger, under the competent direction of Mr. Thick and the musical direction of Nelson Huber, made it a very funny, enjoyable evening. And, as always, the Off-Broadstreet Dessert Theatre offered their delicious fare of home-made desserts, coffee and tea, an hour before the performance.

They're Playing Our Song will run through August 16, Fridays and Saturdays at 8 p.m. and Sunday afternoons at 2:30, with dessert served an hour earlier. For reservations, call the Off-Broadstreet Theatre box office, 5 South Greenwood Avenue in Hopewell, at 466-2766.

TOWN TOPICS, PRINCETON, N.J., WEDNESDAY, JULY 16, 1986 • 6B

The Dorian Wind Quintet Offers Outstanding Program In the Bucolic Setting of the Chamber Concert Series

The regular concert season in Princeton affords this town an amazing variety of possibilities for musical entertainment and edification. Though things quiet down here during the summer months, they have by no means come to a halt. There are still musical pleasures to be had, but they tend to be of a more relaxed and informal nature.

One such addendum to the concert season is the Princeton University Outdoor Chamber Concerts. Weather permitting, these concerts are held in the courtyard of the university's Graduate College. While the setting is informal, the music presented at these concerts is equal in professional caliber to the other major concert series during the year.

The second concert of this summer's series featured the Dorian Wind Quintet on Tuesday evening. Accompanied by chirping birds and breezes wafting through the pines, this splendid ensemble played a program of unusual depth and variety. The concert included two works written specifically for this combination of instruments: Darius Milhaud's suite, Lo Cheminee du Roi Rene, and Gyorgy Ligeti's Six Bagatelles. Framing these works were two written originally for other ensembles and transcribed very successfully for wind quintet by Mordechai Rechtman: J.S. Bach's Concerto No. 2 after Vivaldi (S. 593) and Beethoven's Quintet in E-flat Major (Op. 4).

The joy felt in listening to this group was derived largely from its blend of the various instruments and its excellent sense of ensemble. Each instrument retained its own character, being allowed breadth in the ensemble to emerge when appropriate, then meld back into the underlying textures. The Milhaud suite benefitted greatly from that type of interaction. Its charmingly contemplative and lyrical melodies found voice in the li- quid tones of Jerry Kirkhride's clarinet and the mellowness of Gerald Reuter's oboe. The rhythmic activity of the fast movements received a vigorous treatment, and the piece's quieter moments displayed the unity of their corporate phrasing.

Virtuoso Work. Though the word "bagatelle" literally means a trifle, Ligeti's pieces by that title were by no means diminutive in their virtuosity. Much of Ligeti's writing in this work placed the instruments in the extremes of their ranges. The distinctive nature of the sound was balanced by the melancholy character of the piece's modal melodies and its spicy harmonies built in seconds. These short, powerful pieces were given an energetic and thoughtful reading by the ensemble, and their rendering of the imitative third movement was very crisp and lucid.

There are some musical purists who feel that professional ensembles should only play music written specifically for their given instrumentation. This notion fails to consider the significance of the works by Bach and Beethoven presented in this concert, both of which have similar and interesting histories.

In the case of the Bach concerto, Mr. Rechtman's work as transcriber was really nothing more (nor less) than an extension of what Bach himself did — that is, arranging a concert-to by Vivaldi for instruments of his own choosing. (What might be construed as plagiarism today was in Bach's time a tribute of respect for another composer.) Similarly, his arrangement of Beethoven's Op. 4 String Quintet was preceded by Beethoven's transcription of that work for wind octet, published as Op. 103.

The Quintet's performance of these pieces was outstanding in clarity and musicality. The sweet sound of Jane Taylor's bassoon in the concerto gave a supportive underpinning to the delicate interweaving of the clarinet, oboe and flute (played with sensitivity by Elizabeth Mann). The sparseness of the second movement's three-voiced texture was preserved by the ensemble's perfect balance.

The Beethoven quintet was played with a keen sense of phrasing which carried the piece well despite some tired, harsh sounds emanating from Barry Benjamin's horn. Given his fine performance of the extremely high passages in Ligeti's Bagatelles and the general smoothness of his tone, his fatigue was understandable.

Hearing excellent music performed well in the ease and comfort of a warm evening is indeed one of the finer pleasures of summer. An interesting sidelight of this particular concert was that its atmosphere prompted parents to bring their children along. It was heartening to see so many well-behaved children in attendance. Such exposure to high quality performances is important both to their musical education and to the development of future audiences.

Bergman's Cries and Whispers was his first film in color, and explores the relationship among four women, three of them sisters (Ingrid Thulin, Liv Ullman, Harriett Andersson) and their devoutly loyal housekeeper (Karen Sylwan). As the four strip away their facades to reveal their personal agonies and common fears, Bergman again demonstrates his rare perception about relationships and feelings among women, and also provides illuminating insights into often painful universal truths.

THE VEBLEN COTTAGE: In a clearing in Herrontown Woods stands this little house, which mathematician Oswald Veblen used as a study. Nearby is the barn in which he kept two hunting horses. Great swatches of daffodils encircle the area in spring.

named by color, it takes a sharp eye to pick up the splash of weathered green on a trailside boulder, or a bit of yellow high on a tree trunk. The trees are magnificent, the underbrush lush and varied, and the woods ring with birdcalls. The park is crossed by the gas pipe line.

Facilities: Trail maps on display boards at parking lot and at barn/cottage. Comfort stations are indicated on map, but may no longer exist. Trash receptacle and bicycle rack in parking lot.

Prohibitions: No smoking or picnicking, in addition to those listed under the Woodfield Reservation.

AUTUMN HILL RESERVATION

Description: 72 acres of undeveloped woods north of Herrontown Road extending to Princeton-Montgomery border. Purchased by Township with Borough participation in 1967. Also known as Herrontown Woods extension. Would be impacted if state highway 92 were located along the the Princeton-Montgomery border.

Access: Unmarked gravel parking lot off Herrontown Road west of Autumn Hill Road; footpath from end of Cordova Road, a private cul-de-sac, leads into woods across gas pipe line.

Features: Autumn Hill Reservation is "underutilized," in the words of a 1979 Open Space inventory. What trails there are end in impenetrable underbrush, and it is possible to get "lost" trying to find a way around them.

COMMUNITY PARK

Description: 98 [?] acres on both sides of Route 206. Two separate tracts purchased at different times with state and federal grants. Both are the responsibility of the Recreation Department, which operates the pool complex, playing fields, tennis, platform tennis and bocce courts on the south side and governs the use of the amphitheatre in Community Park North and ice skating on its small pond.

Access: Parking for Community Park North is off Mountain Avenue, with footpath access also available from the end of the Unitarian Church parking lot off Cherry Hill Road.

Features: Picnic tables and benches, comfort stations; wide trail (excellent for cross-country skiing in winter) loops through pine grove and is also a 10-station fitness course.

VAN DYKE-WIGHT

Description: 31 undeveloped acres along Snowden Lane opposite Terhune Road. Most of the acreage was purchased by the Township, with Borough participation, in 1966, with eight acres added in 1978. Intended for recreational use to relieve pressure on Community Park facilities.

Features: Flat woods, with large pine grove, suitable for picnicking.

WILDLIFE REFUGE

Description: 40 acres along Stony Brook at end of West Drive, off Alexander Road. Leased to Township from Elizabethtown Water Company. Easement first granted in 1968, was renewed in 1978. Renamed Charles H. Rogers Wildlife Refuge for a longtime Princeton resident, an ornithologist who instituted the Annual Christmas Bird Count and was instrumental in creating the Refuge.

Access: Gravel drive to Water Co. facility also leads to gravel parking area by marsh.

Hours: One hour before sunrise to one hour after sundown.

Features: Observation platform for view of marsh in which nesting boxes and bird houses have been placed. Trail along Stony Brook and into neighboring Institute Woods.

The Wildlife Refuge is a nesting ground for 96 species of birds, and another 90 species have been recorded there as migrants or accidentals over the years. The tract is best known for the many different kinds of warblers passing through in spring and fall, and the Refuge is visited by many nature groups.

Prohibitions: Same as for Woodfield.

TURNING BASIN PARK

Description: 10 acres at foot of Alexander Street between D&R Canal and Stony Brook purchased in two parcels by Township with Green Acres assistance. In the process of being developed with state, municipal (Borough, Township and West Windsor) and private funds.

Access: Gravel parking area west of Alexander Street.

Hours: One hour before sunrise to one hour after sundown.

Facilities: Many picnic tables and benches, grills, trash receptacles; comfort stations; short trail along Canal and Stony Brook; historic interpretive sign contributed by Historical Society describes the Canal and the area in their hey-day.

A canoe rental facility is planned in the former turning basin in the eastern part of the park, as well as a roofed picnic pavillion and additional playground equipment in the developed area to the west.

MARQUAND PARK

Description: 17-acre arboretum and open field between Stockton Street and Lovers Lane. Given to the people of Princeton in 1953 from the estate of Prof. Allan Marquand, founder of

In addition to these clearly defined municipal parks — and one county park — there are several Township-owned areas along Stony Brook on the 1979 open space map, which are undeveloped and little-known. They are in the flood plain and include:

- Nearly 53 acres in steep, wooded slopes, part of which is behind the Brookstone development, part to the rear of the Brooks Bend subdivision (Greene and Peyton acquisitions). Open space advocates hope to add 57 acres of woods at the rear of Ettl Farm when that property is developed.

- 48 acres along Stony Brook from the Johnson Park School to the Hun School, below the Edgerstoune development (Johnson acquisition).

- 21 acres between Stony Brook and the D&R Canal near the Mercer County Country Club in the southwest corner of the Township (Eno acquisition).

In joint municipal ownership are 44 acres in lands held by the Princeton Sewer Operating Committee.

State-owned lands with public access include the 71 acres of Princeton Battlefield Park — with an additional 47 acres targeted as important for future acquisition.

Privately owned land within the Township that is open to the public and tax-exempt under state Department of Environmental Protection easement include:

- 202 acres of woods belonging to the Institute for Advanced Study, with access at the end of Olden Lane. Straight, wide trails, well-maintained and excellent for winter cross country skiing, traverse the woods in grid fashion. Dogs are not allowed to run in the Institute Woods.

- 62 acres belonging to All Saints' Church, off Terhune Road, includes a cemetery, and is not a park, per se.

- 30 acres belonging to Princeton Theological Seminary, part of its Ross Stevenson Circle development off Mt. Lucas Road.

In addition, the 1979 inventory speaks of some 507 acres of flood plain, not already accounted for in other parks and reservations. Land use statutes prohibit building in the flood plain, and thus these acres are included in the total open space acreage.

A survey of parks and reservations available for passive recreation would be incomplete without mention of two areas that are outside Borough and Township boundaries but are enjoyed by residents. They are:

- The D&R Canal towpath running along the entire southern boundary of the Township;
- The Lucy Chauncey Trail winding through the woods along Stony Brook behind Educational Testing Service off Rosedale Road. This is one of the loveliest and best maintained trails in the area. Like the All Saint's and Seminary lands mentioned above, much of the ETS property is tax-exempt and must be open to the public to remain so under the DEP Green Acres agreement.

—Barbara L. Johnson

DEVIL'S CAVE: Around to the front of this huge overhanging rock is the entrance to that place of imagination and adventure known as Devil's Cave. The gift of the late Mary Pardee to the Township of the 45 acres of woods in which this natural phenomenon is located at the northwest corner makes it forever accessible to future generations of children.

Tigers' Stratton Signs With Oakland Athletics

It was apparently an offer too good to refuse, and Princeton University's Drew Stratton will give up his final year of college baseball.

The Oakland Athletics, currently the worst team in the major leagues, have signed Stratton, their eighth-round draft pick this spring. The terms of the signing were not officially disclosed, but Stratton is understood to have received a sizeable bonus, plus an agreement whereby the A's will pay at least part of his tuition for his final year at Princeton coming up this fall.

Although he will be ineligible to play baseball here next spring, Stratton will be able to finish his studies before joining the team. He had been playing in the Cape Cod league this summer, but has joined the Athletics' minor league team on the A level in Madison, Wis., until September.

Stratton holds the career record for home runs at Princeton with 21, and was four short of topping Dan Arendas' record of 107 RBIs in a career. His best year came as a sophomore when he hit 11 home runs, a season record, drove in 53 and batted .325. His production fell off markedly as a junior, when he batted .287.

The A's had pursued Stratton with several offers, but he had turned them all down until this latest one came through. He had started off with a bang in the Cape Cod league, slamming four homers in his first five games, and Oakland then came back with more dollars.

It's a tough loss for coach Tom O'Connell who had been counting on Stratton as team captain, to help lead the Tigers back to the top of the Eastern League. But the Princeton coach will benefit in his recruiting efforts, pointing out that four players in the last two years are now playing professional ball.

Arendas is with the Yankees, pitcher Scott LaForest signed a free agent contract with Baltimore and is pitching in the Appalachian rookie league, and last year the Los Angeles Dodgers signed Mike Fiala, who is pitching in Great Falls, Mont.

The Yankees have recently moved Arendas down to their Sarasota team in the Florida Gulf Coast League, because he was not getting enough playing time at Oneonta in the NYP league. An oversupply of outfielders had limited Arendas to just 19 at bats (three hits) in nine games.

day, while Hamilton Post 31 remained on top with a 6-0 shutout of Ewing.

As a result, Post 76 moved into second place with a 16-5 record. Hamilton is 17-4 and Bordentown 16-5.

"Today we won. That's good," said Bender. "So we go to tomorrow's game and let the other teams do what they have to do." In noting that Hamilton and Bordentown were scheduled to oppose each other this week in a crucial game, Bender added, "We have to worry about ourselves."

The games are coming relentlessly, as the season heads into its final week.

Post 76 Back in Second As Season Nears End

"One game at a time. One game at a time."

It's crunch time in the Mercer County American Legion League race, and manager Larry Bender of Princeton Post 76, one of the three contenders, has made the admonition "one game at a time" his personal mantra.

If anything, the race is tighter than ever. Princeton defeated Bordentown, one of the other contenders, 4-1, Mon-

Princeton's Foster Injured

Pre-season practice is still more than a month away, but already Princeton football coach Ron Rogerson has lost a player he was counting on.

Junior Steve Foster was seriously injured in an automobile accident in West Germany in mid-June, and will be lost for at least this season. He was visiting his step-parents in Wiesbaden, when his stepfather's car was involved in a head-on collision.

Riding in the back seat, Foster broke two vertebrae. After surgery, he was fitted for a back brace and will wear a brace for an indeterminate length of time, possibly as long as two years.

It is too early to tell if he will be able to play football again. Also uncertain at this point is whether Foster might take a year off from the University, as Derek Graham did, to save a year of eligibility on the gridiron.

The 5-10, 185-lb. running back was the fourth leading rusher on the team last fall as a sophomore, gaining 174 yards in 53 carries. Along with Craig Fitchett, he was expected to start at halfback this fall.

Rogerson spoke to Foster last week, and reported he was in good spirits.

STURHAHN, DICKENSON & BERNARD

Contrary to popular opinion, the most difficult hit to achieve in baseball is NOT a home run, but a triple -- and here's proof ... In the entire history of big league baseball, nobody has ever hit more than 36 triples in one season while many players have hit more than 36 homers in a season ... The record for triples was set by Owen Wilson who hit 36 of them in 1912 -- and in all the years since then, no big leaguer has ever come close to that record.

Here's an oddity ... Since the end of World War II, the Montreal Canadiens have won the Stanley Cup championship EVERY time the year ended in "6" ... They won it in 1946, 1956, 1966, 1976 and 1986!

Three cheers for the red, white and blue ... and S.D.B.'s claim service.

Did you know that a man once courageously won the U.S. Open golf championship even though he had just one good arm? ... The winner of the 1954 U.S. Open, Ed Furgol, had his left arm permanently disabled in a childhood accident -- yet he learned to play golf, and despite his disability, he triumphed over adversity and became one of the top golfers in the nation.

Following Tuesday's scheduled encounter with Broad Street Park, Post 76 has five games left.

will host Lawrence Post 414 on Field 1 at Mercer Park; Friday at 5:45 it will oppose Trenton Post 93 at Wetzel Field and on Sunday at 1 it will entertain Hopewell Post 339 on Field 2 at Mercer Park.

On Tuesday, Post 76 will meet Hightstown at 5:54 at Mercer Park. After that, the final game: a showdown with Hamilton next Wednesday at Mercer Park that could determine the league race.

Arendas Sparkles. Good pitching wins ballgames and Post 76 has been getting it. The latest pitcher to produce was Dave Arendas, who stopped Bordentown on five hits, striking out six and walking three. It was his first start in 12 days.

The key to his team's third win in a row, in Bender's view, was getting men on base and bringing them home with a key hit. "Of course, Dave (Arendas) did a real nice job on the mound, too."

Post 76 scored one run in the first inning when Arendas led off with a single off losing pitcher Darren Kotch and then stole second. A perfect bunt single by Darren Villani sent Arendas to third from where he scored on a ground out by Craig Ender. After Bordentown tied the score at 1 in the third, Arendas supplied the winning run in Princeton's half of the the inning when he homered over the left field wall. Post 76 added an insurance run in the same inning when Kotch uncorked a wild pitch.

Arendas and Villani each had two hits and Ender drove in a run for the victors. Bender cited the defensive play of Danny Sexton at second and Villani at third.

The win was Arendas' fourth in five decisions and the first loss for Kotch in four.

Ewing Falls, 6-3. Post 76 stayed in the three-team hunt for first place with a pair of wins over the weekend.

On Saturday, Post 76 defeated Ewing Post 314, 6-3, behind the pitching and batting of Tim Rumer, who as much as any player is responsible for Princeton's position in the standings. The previous day, pitching came to the fore again when Princeton stopped Mitchell Davis, 3-1, as Billy Byrne and Mike Walker combined for a one-hitter. The win gave Post 76 a sweep of its three meetings this season with the losers.

With the score tied at 3, Post 76 won its must game with Ewing when it erupted for four runs in the final inning. Rumer allowed just three singles in picking up his fifth win of the season against one loss. At the plate, the 16-year-old Princeton High senior, had a double and single in three appearances and drove in two runs.

Darren Villani and left fielder Jay Jordan also had two hits apiece, Villani including an RBI triple in his pair. Dave Arendas, Villani, Rumer and Mike Walker all drove in runs for the victors.

Dave Cook was charged with the loss for the 6-13 Ewing club.

Byrne, who looks better with each succeeding outing, pitched all but the final two-thirds of an inning in subduing Mitchell Davis. Catcher Ed Pattik had the lone hit for the losers.

Post 76 scored all of its runs in the second to erase a 1-0 lead after M-D had scored an unearned run in the first. The big blow was a two-run double by John Clarkson.

In all, Post 76 collected eight hits off losing pitcher Ron Wilson, including two by Jordan, its designated hitter. With the loss, Mitchell-Davis lost its bid to reach .500 and slumped to 8-10.

Quid Pro Quo. The showdown meeting last week between Post 76 and first-place Hamilton was a standoff. Princeton won the first game (the first meeting between the two clubs) 6-3, and Hamilton returned the favor the next day, triumphing, 5-1. The difference: in each game the victor was able to hunch its hits for a big inning.

"We're so evenly matched with talent that the team that makes the plays wins," commented Bender.

In its win, Post 76 scored five runs in the third on four consecutive singles by Tim Rumer, Darren Villani, Mike Walker and Craig Ender along with a walk, sacrifice hunt and errant pickoff throw. In the process, it handed Hamilton pitcher Steve Lyons his first loss of the season. Lyons, who will begin his sophomore year at Lehigh University in the fall, had entered the game with a 5-0 record.

Rumer, who started on the mound for Post 76, following consecutive no-hitters of seven and five innings, blanked the Carella's over the first four innings. But his scoreless string ended at 16 when he ran into trouble in the fifth and was touched for three runs, although Hamilton never got the ball out of the infield.

Bender called on his top stopper, Mike Walker, in the sixth after a walk by Rumer had placed runners on first and second with one out. Walker pitched scoreless ball the final 1½ innings. Rumer got the win, his fourth against no losses.

Both teams had five hits.

Hamilton's Turn. The next day it was Hamilton's turn. It plated three runs in the fifth to break open a pitchers' duel between Jay Jordan of Post 76 and Hamilton's Craig Ruyak. Held to five hits, Post 76

Downpour Forces Postponement Of County Legion All-Star Game

It rained only 15 minutes, but the downpour was hard enough to force postponement of Sunday's fourth annual Mercer County American Legion-Bucks County Legion All-Star game. The contest has been rescheduled for Saturday at 7 p.m. at Mercer County Park.

The 28-member Mercer County squad, selected by the league's players, managers and coaches, will be piloted by Hightstown Post 148 manager Gordon Tantom.

Princeton Post 76 is the most represented team, with five players. They are third baseman Darren Villani who has a .400 batting average; shortstop Dave Arendas, .267; second baseman Dan Sexton, .290; catcher Craig Ender, .239; and outfielder Tim Rumer, .333. Rumer is also one of the top pitchers in the league with a 5-1 record and 3.10 ERA. Two of his victories have been no-hitters.

Bordentown Post 26, which is engaged in a torrid battle with Post 76 and Hamilton for the league lead, has the second-largest number of players on the squad with four, while four teams — Hopewell, Hightstown, Ewing and Broad Street Park — have three apiece. Hightstown catcher Ed Horowitz, hitting the ball at a .353 clip, was the only unanimous choice.

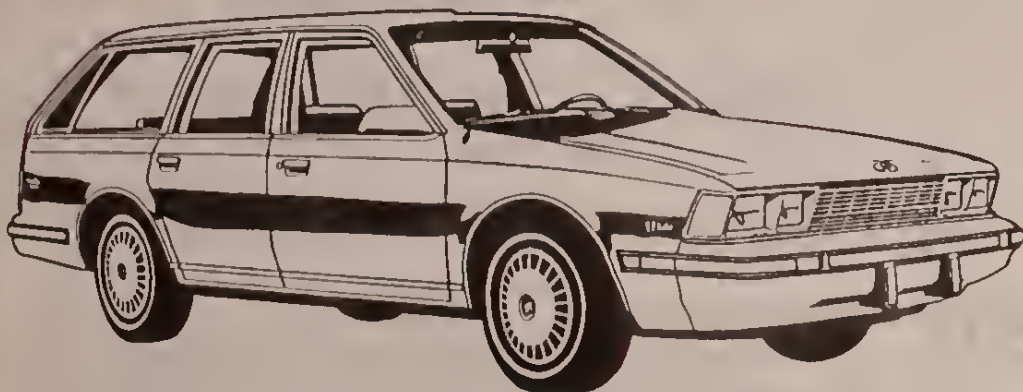

Bucks County leads the series two games to one.

received second-half goals from Jessica Fraker, Beth Vasta and Karen Callaway for its win. Fraker had scored twice and Vasta once in the first half with Callaway assisting on all three scores.

Rebecca Royal, who played half the game as goalie, had two goals and Liz O'Donoghue one to account for Red's scoring.

Green and Blue were knotted at 3-3 at halftime, as Bernice Chen, Maggie Heinzl and Lee Jamison all scored for Green while Liz Hewson, with a pair of goals, and Alison King countered for Blue.

In the second half, Susan Jones tallied twice and Deborah Cedeno added a single goal to provide Blue with its winning margin.

Substitute Liz O'Donoghue had 13 saves for Green.

scored its only run in the fifth to cut Hamilton's lead to one run. John Mitchell walked with one out but was called out later when the base umpire ruled that he had interfered with a bouncer hit by teammate Chuck McCall to Hamilton second baseman Marc Martini.

It was costly for the losers because Dan Sexton and Dave Arendas followed with singles to score McCall. Ruyak got out of it by fanning Rumer, one of the top hitters in the league, for the final out.

Hamilton batted around in their half of the same inning, chasing Jordan from the mound. Jordan deserved better from his teammates. One error allowed the Carella's to load the bases and another by the usually sure-handed Villani at third allowed a runner to score. DH Joe Gmitter than singled to right to plate two more runs for a 5-1 Hamilton lead.

"We didn't hit," complained Bender after the game. "You can't play great one day and bad the next and expect to win."

Jordan was tagged with the loss, his second against one win. Ruyak improved his record to 4-1.

The split left Post 76 a game behind Hamilton in the standings. They will oppose each other one more time on July 23, the final regularly-scheduled game of the season for Princeton.

The Princeton-based Steve Ficarro's Auto Body women's softball team gained two victories last week, both under the 10-run rule, in the Mercer County Women's A League, with a 23-2 rout of Champale and a 12-1 romp over Zip's Steak House. Ficarro's record is now 15-4, a half-game behind league-leading 3 Seasons.

Against Champale, Ficarro's exploded for 23 hits, led by winning pitcher Clare Baxter (4-for-4, home run, 3 RBI's), Diane Kelly (3-for-3, home run, 5 RBI's) and Dot Krumpfer (3-for-4, triple, 4 RBI's). Dee Discavage, Cindy Lombardo and Grace Durland each added two hits, while Debbie Smyth homered. Beth Ault, Sandi Hibbs and Melanie Nosal also contributed a hit apiece.

In the win over Zip's, Durland led Ficarro's with a 3-for-3 performance, including a home run and 3 RBI's. Also hitting were Donna Nicholson (2-for-2), Lombardo (2-for-2) and winning pitcher Baxter (2-for-3, 3 RBI's), who allowed just four hits.

Ficarro's next opponents will be Vermeer North Atlantic on Thursday at 7:30 p.m. on Field 4 at Mercer County Park.
